Russ Take Khotinets, 100 Other Places

LONDON (AP)—Russian forces captured Khotinets, a district centre and railway station 45 miles east of Bryansk, and 30 other hamlets today, Moscow announced tonight.

In the Kharkov drive the Red Army advanced five to seven miles, capturing more than 70 populated places including Lipetsk, 12 miles northeast of Kharkov.

Moving up on Sumy, an objective in the general drive toward Kiev, the Russians stormed into Bolshoi Doblik, 14 miles southeast of Sumy, a special communiqué said.

Killed in Sicily

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—Lt. Col. Ralph Crowe, 32, officer commanding the Royal Canadian Regiment in Sicily, has been killed in action overseas, his wife was informed today.

No Fathers in Army?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman May of the House Military Committee announced today he would introduce on Sept. 14, the day Congress returns from its summer recess, legislation to prohibit the induction of fathers.

U.S. Telegraphs Join

NEW YORK (AP)—Stockholders of Western Union and Postal Telegraph today approved terms for the merger of the two companies, which will create the first nationally unified telegraph system.

Steal 2,696 Coupons

VANCOUVER (CP)—Black market thieves raiding the automobile of J. D. Cornett in Vancouver got away with 2,696 meat coupons which will provide them with approximately that many pounds of meat, it was learned today. Cornett is owner of two butcher shops and chairman of the meat dealers' division, Retail Merchants' Association.

C.N.R. Train Derailed

EDMONTON (CP)—Five persons, one a 10-month-old baby, were removed to hospital Monday night when three coaches of the Canadian National Railway Continental Limited jumped a switch and left the tracks as the train pulled into the west end of the city. All received minor injuries.

The injured are Mrs. Albert Gordon Linfo of Oshawa, Ont., her two daughters, Dorothy, 10, months and Helen, three, and Mr. and Mrs. James Dezell, Owen Sound, Ont.

Reils were ripped up and ties were snapped as the coaches jumped the track and ploughed into the ground for a distance of about 10 feet. None of the cars turned over.

Victorians Promoted

Six Victorians are listed in promotions of 110 officers and other ranks of Canadian Army overseas, announced by defence headquarters, Ottawa.

Dr. G. B. Bigelow, 2390 San Carlos, with No. 1 Canadian General Hospital in England, has been made major. He recently appeared in the news as winner of the amateur golf championship, Canadian army overseas.

D. Bleasdale, promoted to the rank of lieutenant, serving with the 6th Canadian overseas, is the son of Mrs. J. Bleasdale, October Mansions, and brother of Harry Bleasdale, Victoria Times artist. Lieut. Bleasdale recently won the singles and doubles army badminton championship.

Other Victoria promotions are: W. Alan Georgeson, formerly of 263 View Royal, to be acting major; H. Williams and C. E. Robinson, to be acting captain, and J. C. Cornell, to be lieutenant.

Raymond H. Hunter Killed in Action

Word has been received by Mrs. A. deSerres, 1006 Newport Ave., of the death of her only son, Raymond Henry Hunter, who was killed in action in Sicily July 10.

Pte. Hunter was born in Victoria 23 years ago and attended Oaklands and Victoria High Schools.

He was attached to the 72nd Regiment, Seaforth Highlanders, and left Vancouver Dec. 15, 1939. He is survived by his mother, one sister, Mrs. R. Zimmerman, Vancouver, and his father at Port Alberni.

Repeat Bombing of Rome British Press Demands

LONDON (CP)—A demand that Rome be bombed again was sounded in the British press today as the Sicilian campaign moved rapidly toward a climax with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government showing no sign of heeding Allied surrender demands.

Urging a repetition of the July 19 bombing of Rome, the London Daily Express declared that "we should remind 1,000,000 Italians in their capital that their need to force a decision from Badoglio is still more pressing than ours."

This expression of opinion coincided with a Rome broadcast indicating that, for the moment at least, Badoglio had no intention of cutting his ties with Hitler.

"To expect that Italy should desert Germany at this crucial moment of the war and trade her national honor as an escape from fighting is an insult," said the broadcast, which was recorded by the ministry of information.

The London News Chronicle asserted that the Allies had "failed to establish a unity of outlook" and said there "is needed that full and frank exchange of views between Premier Stalin, President Roosevelt and our own prime minister about which Germany is so nervous."

The Daily Herald said "there must be set up without delay new machinery, a political council of the United Nations to settle in advance as far as possible such issues as have been raised by the North African and Italian campaigns."

Dispatches from Berne, Switzerland meanwhile said agitation to bring about a nationwide general strike in Italy and force the Badoglio government to make peace with the Allies continued today as troops patrolled strike-ridden industrial areas in the north.

Use of troops was reported by the Swiss Telegraphic Agency.

from the Swiss border town of Chiasso, which said the strikes intensified in volume following heavy RAF raids on Genoa, Turin and Milan Saturday night. Military intervention succeeded in halting the walkouts in Genoa, the dispatches said, and work was resumed on "regular schedules."

German troops stationed in the area helped extinguish fires which followed the raid, the Gazzetta del Popolo was quoted as saying.

The renewed air raids, however, spurred strike activities, as well as underground political opposition to the government, whose failure to respond to peace demands has raised public resentment to new heights, reports stated.

A Rome dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve, however, said that Italy has "no choice" but to stay in the war, and that if Italy succeeds with German aid in holding Allied troops for a time, "events could take place which would offer unspecified possibilities for Italy to get out of the present situation."

(The Berlin correspondent of the Madrid paper Informaciones said an announcement would be forthcoming that Italy will continue in the war with "still more active military help from Germany than ever before.")

Meanwhile, the sobering effect of Axis reverses on the German population was reflected in an editorial in the Frankfurter Zeitung, copies of which have reached here. The editorial, spread over the front page, said Germany now is engaged in a "struggle of life and death" in the east against a "merciless opponent" and declared this situation has created a "heavy crisis" which always comes in a great war and requires "every German to do his duty."

Lt. Douglas McIntyre Killed in Sicily

Lieut. Douglas McIntyre, last week reported wounded in action in Sicily on July 22, died the same day, according to a cable from north Africa received through the director of records today by his mother, Mrs. D. N. McIntyre, 844 Dunsmuir Road, and his sister, Miss Kay McIntyre. He is the first Victoria officer reported meeting death in action in Sicily.

LT. DOUGLAS MCINTYRE
First Victoria officer reported meeting death in invasion.

He was a grandson of the late Rev. Charles Edwaid McIntyre of Kingston, Ont., for years a leader in the Presbyterian Church throughout Ontario. His father, Lieut. Neil McIntyre, who was news editor of the Victoria Colonist, was killed at Passchendaele in the last war, just as his son was to be a quarter of a century later in his first action against the enemy. Lieut. Douglas McIntyre was the only third generation and last surviving male member of the old Kingston, Ontario, McIntyre family. An uncle and aunt live in Preston, Ont., and other relatives in Belleville, Ont. Like his grandfather and his father, Lieut. McIntyre was a Queen's man. After graduation from university he entered Osgoode Hall, Toronto, where he studied law for a few months until he enlisted in Jan., 1941. He was commissioned and trained as a tank corps officer at Camp Borden. Just before going overseas in July, 1941, he spent his embarkation leave in Victoria. He went to Sicily with a Quebec tank unit, which was one of the first to land.

Curdy home, which it did not want, in order to secure the timber stand.

It was accessible to a trunk road, which cut down operating costs considerably, he said. If moved to another location by exchange, the company would not only lose the value of experienced timber crew, which was feasible near Victoria, but would be unable to replace them at some distant limits where conditions would not be so favorable. The McCurdy home, of rustic construction, stands on a high bluff, looking down a steep slope into the waters of Saanich Inlet and across the Gulf and Strait to mainland mountains and the Olympics.

Continue Dicker to Save Malahat

Government officials marked time today in their effort to save further cutting of Malahat timber following a long conference Monday between Samuel Cowan, manager of Malahat Park Logging Company, and C. D. Orchard, the government's chief forester.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, returned to Victoria today and said he hoped to inspect the area where the cutting is proceeding.

Mr. Cowan said his company has no wish to cut the timber in defiance of public opinion, but there are some facts not generally known, he said. The company had acquired 800 acres and had been obliged to buy the Mc-

Kharkov Within Range Of Russian Siege Guns

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW (AP)—Kharkov, third largest city in Russia, was reported within range of the Red army's heavy guns today as the fast-moving Soviet forces stepped up their assaults on the Ukrainian city and also on the big German base of Bryansk, 250 miles to the north.

One Soviet column has driven to a point 30 miles to the northwest of Kharkov, while a second is within 12 miles of the city on the north and there are evidences that the groggy German army is beating a hasty retreat, a Russian war bulletin said.

The situation, the Russians declared, was similar in the north, where the spearhead of the Red army had covered one-third of the 75-mile distance between Orel, the German base which fell last week, and Bryansk.

(The German radio, admitting that the Red army was attacking in force, also disclosed that the Russians had launched an offensive in the direction of Smolensk, 150 miles northwest of Bryansk. The Russians made no mention of this latest operation in the midnight communiqué.)

NAZIS IN DISORDER

The Kharkov assault resulted in the capture of more than 100 villages, the Russian communiqué said. Indications that the German forces were retreating in some disorder were seen in the Russian report of the capture of 212 tanks, 139 guns of various calibres, 96 mortars, 323 machine guns, 618 motor trucks, 30 radio transmitters, 11 supply and munitions dumps, 315 loaded railroad cars and 55 horse-drawn carts.

Among the important towns seized in the Kharkov sector were the railroad town of Trosoyanets, Slatino, 12 miles north of city, and Nikitovka, 30 miles to the northwest.

The speed of the Russian advance on Kharkov presented a definite danger of entrapment to the thousands of Nazi troops occupying the base, the communiqué indicated.

PAYING HEAVILY

The Germans were resisting the Bryansk advance stubbornly and were paying heavily in manpower. In fighting at Shakovo, Nazi prisoners said, the 253rd infantry division lost 50 per cent of its strength and the Russians claimed that German losses were in excess of 3,500 men.

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard in London, said two Red Army generals had been killed in the fighting at Belgorod and Orel. They were identified as General Apensenko, 51, formerly with the Russian Far Eastern forces, who was killed at Belgorod, and Maj.-Gen. Gurtyev, one of the heroes of Stalingrad, who died in the fighting at Orel.

Allies Advance Steadily in Sicily As Bombers Hit Axis Communications

By RELMAN MORIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Allied ground forces made progress everywhere along the front in Sicily, Allied headquarters announced today, as heavy Allied naval units rained torrents of shells on the enemy's exposed coastal positions.

Royal Navy destroyers shelled the coastal road and railway at Riposto, north of Acireale and nine miles south of Taormina on the east coast, after blasting at similar targets at Taormina.

The British 8th Army was described as making considerable progress in "closing around Mount Etna," advancing up the coastal shelf between that giant landmark and the sea, and pushing on beyond Bronte on the road west of the mountain toward Randazzo. British and Canadian troops were reported less than seven miles from Randazzo, communications hub of the enemy's position.

Flanking patrols of Britons and Americans were said to have closed the gap between the two armies in that sector where the Americans had pushed past Casarzo to within 10 miles of Randazzo.

Announcing that American soldiers captured 1,500 German prisoners in landing behind the lines near Cape Orlando Sunday night—a feat which resulted in the fall of the enemy's northern coastal anchor positions at San Fratello and San Agata—a naval communiqué said heavy United States warships continued to batter a way for the 7th army.

SLOW AND STEADY

The progress of the troops, spearheading toward the Messina tip, was officially described as "slow and steady," with the enemy resorting to "every device to hold up the relentless advance of our forces."

However, the Germans' position "daily becomes more difficult," the communiqué said, despite heavy demolitions, rugged country and lack of roads which interfered with swift Allied movement.

The American raiding party which landed in the Germans' rear at Torrenova, just west of Cape Orlando, has succeeded in making contact with the main body of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 7th Army, it was stated.

This amphibious force, besides capturing 1,500 prisoners, destroyed important military installations and its operation was officially described as "highly successful."

Both the strategic and tactical air forces concentrated on bombing and strafing the enemy along his avenues of escape.

Heavy bombers paced the Allied air smashes with heavy wall-to-wall attacks at the Messina outlet, where virtually all enemy motor transport from base to front must pass.

BOMBERS TAKE TOLL

For the fifth straight night R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons attacked landing craft on the Messina beaches, bombed coastal installations and caused a large explosion and fires at Paradiso.

The Italian toe's rail and road communications were repeatedly smashed by raids in the neighborhood of Catanzaro and Angitola for the third successive day.

R.A.F. Liberators and Halifaxes again thundered over San Giovanni by night.

Six small ships were sunk off the north coast of Sicily near Milazzo.

American fighters and bombers destroyed 16 vehicles and damaged more than 20 in the Barcellona area east of Cape Orlando where the Germans were preparing to make a new stand against the Americans.

Barcellona is 23 miles east of Cape Orlando and 17 miles from Messina.

Fighter-bombers also maintained their savage raids on the Randazzo area, where they piled wreckage in an effort to block that point for enemy transport.

In all these operations four enemy aircraft were shot down Monday, while the Allies reported three of their own planes missing.

Meanwhile, improvement in Allied supply and communications was announced with mine-sweeper operations clearing the channel into the highly important east coast harbor of Catania.

1st Casualty List From Sicily Friday

OTTAWA (CP)—The first casualty list arising out of the operations of Canadian troops in Sicily will probably be issued Friday night (Aug. 13), it was learned at Defence Headquarters today. It is expected to contain between 75 and 100 names and will be followed by other lists, possibly Aug. 16 and Aug. 19.

Chiefs of Staff With Premier; To See Mr. King

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill has arrived in Canada and before he returns to Britain will confer with President Roosevelt and the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and the United Kingdom.

Mr. Churchill was greeted on his arrival here by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

During his stay in Canada he will be a guest of the Canadian government.

The following is the terse statement issued late this afternoon by Mr. King's temporary office in Quebec:

"The Prime Minister of Great Britain has arrived in Canada, accompanied by Lord Leathers, the Minister of War Transport for the United Kingdom, and the British chiefs of staff.

"Mr. Churchill was received on arrival by Mr. Mackenzie King, and during his stay in Canada will be the guest of the Canadian government.

Mr. Churchill will have discussions with Mr. Mackenzie King, and later will attend a conference with President Roosevelt and the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and the United Kingdom."

Mr. Churchill was accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Subaltern Mary Churchill of the British Auxiliary Territorial Services. Others in his party, according to an official announcement, include:

Wing Cmdr. G. P. Gibson, D.F.C., who led the air squadron which successfully bombed the Mohne and Eder Dams.

RUSSIANS ABSENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after an announcement of Prime Minister Churchill's arrival in Quebec, President Roosevelt told his press conference today that he expected to confer with the Prime Minister and that conferences would be held between British and American military staffs.

Mr. Roosevelt said there would be no Russian participation in the new conferences, although he said he did not mean that he would not be glad to have the Russians present. This was in response to a question whether Russia would be represented.

Hit By Bombers, Twin Ruhr Towns Left in Flames

LONDON (CP)—Big formations of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers blasted Mannheim and Ludwigshafen Monday night while speedy Mosquitoes attacked targets in the industrial Ruhr Valley, the air ministry announced today.

Flying on the big raid were squadrons from the Canadian bomber group.

Nine bombers, two of them Canadian, were lost during the night's operations, in the course of which R.A.F. fighters attacked enemy airfields and railways in France and the Low Countries, shooting down two enemy aircraft, a communiqué said.

Large fires were reported set in Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, twin towns situated on opposite banks of the Rhine near its junction with the Neckar, 43 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

Together the two towns form an important armament centre.

BIG INLAND PORT

Great factories there turn out tanks, motor vehicles, diesel engines and high explosives. The towns, which have a combined population of about 350,000, in normal times, represent the second largest inland port in Europe.

Monday night's attack was the 57th raid on the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen area, which was last hit on April 16.

Fighter planes attacked the German airdrome at St. Didier in France and shot up railway targets near Abbeville, the air ministry news service reported.

One German fighter was reported shot down over Belgium by an R.A.F. wing commander who already had 15 enemy planes to his credit while another was destroyed over northern France.

Britain, meanwhile, enjoyed another raid-free night.

ON THE ROAD TO MESSINA—With the fall of Catania, nastiest stumbling block in the Allies path in Sicily, British, Canadian and Americans are able to speed up their inexorable march toward Messina, main escape hatch for retreating Nazis. Inquest Opened Into Truck-Bus Crash at Nelson

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — An inquest was opened here today into the deaths of three women in a highway collision of a truck and a passenger bus near here Monday. Four other persons were injured, one possibly seriously.

Alex. Konkin of Shoreacres, B.C., driver for the Burns Lumber and Coal Co., was charged with manslaughter after the collision. A. J. Miller was the driver of the Greyhound bus.

The three women killed were Mrs. Marion Evans, Trail, B.C.; Miss Mary Cain, Nanaimo, B.C.; and Mrs. Natasha Gritchin, Brilliant, B.C. Mrs. Evans' husband, Pte. Leonard Evans, is stationed at Kingston, Ont.

Only one of the four injured persons may be seriously hurt — a Mrs. Antiaeff of Brilliant, B.C., who suffered shock and a possible fractured skull.

The bus was carrying 10 passengers when the truck collided with it on a sweeping curve about nine miles west of Nelson, tearing out the side of the bus along with several sets of seats.

Edmonton to Admit 3 Japs; 2 Rejected

EDMONTON (CP) — Three of five applications for Japanese applying for permission to come to Edmonton reside, were granted and two refused by the City Council at Monday night's meeting. Two of the three granted permission will enter the University of Alberta and the other will reside with a sister now resident here.

Three permitted to come to Edmonton are residents of Alberta and must supply assurance to the city that they will not become a charge on the municipality, and must satisfy commissioners of their loyalty and good standing in former communities.

B.C. Regiment Routs Nazis With Grenades

Seaforths in Fierce Fight Win Key Sicily Positions

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY (Delayed, CP) — The Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, a Vancouver regiment, and a Canadian tank unit climaxed some of the fiercest fighting in Sicily by routing stubborn German defenders from an important ridge in close-quarter battle in the brilliant operation that led to the fall of Aderno.

The fight was featured by exchanges of hand grenades. The Seaforths' advance, under a Vancouver lieutenant-colonel, carried them to high ground near the key city of Aderno and dominating the Simeto River. There was fighting for nearly every inch of the 15-mile way.

Other leaders of the Seaforth units in the Aderno mountain fighting were Maj. Budge Bell-Irving and Jim Blair, Capt. E. W. Thomas, all of Vancouver, and Capt. W. G. Harris of Armstrong, B.C.

The Seaforths began their big push from the Regalbuto area Aug. 3 and the battalion was taken in trucks to a point near the Salsio River, which flows north of the Regalbuto-Aderno main road to join the Simeto in front of Aderno.

This country was a pile of mountains and hills. Maj. Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian 1st Division, decided on a break through the mountains on Aderno rather than follow the main road.

EDMONTONS GO FIRST

The Loyal Edmontoners were sent into the hills first, then the Seaforths followed up in less mountainous areas.

During the night of Aug. 3-4, the Seaforths, advancing afoot, crossed the Salsio, aiming to push east six miles to Troina, then the objective of the American 7th Army. Luck was with the Seaforths, for the Nazis shelled the area before the Highlanders crossed.

Halfway between the Salsio and Troina Rivers the Seaforths advanced guard was fired on from a hill called Tamburino. Capt. Harris' company was attacked from the left and Maj. Blair's from the right. Despite heavy fire, they wiped out the enemy machine-gun posts.

By coincidence, the Edmontoners attacked Tamburino from the rear at the same time and the units met on top of the crest.

Not stopping in their advance, the Seaforths pressed forward to attack a 1,000-foot ridge overlooking the Troina-Aderno road, then used extensively by the Germans. Maj. Bell-Irving's company led the way, and was fired on as daylight came. The Seaforths, under cover of rugged slopes, went round on the right flank and got a foothold on the side of their objective.

The company worked in on the Germans, who were crack paratroopers fighting as infantry. It was a man-to-man fight practically all the way to the Simeto, and at times the enemy was superior in numbers. Then Capt. Thomas' company went in to exploit the success scored by Bell-Irving's company, and the whole battalion got a grip on the hill.

Saskatchewan machine-gunners were helping the Seaforths. Then tanks came up to fire on the last enemy positions on a toothlike pinnacle jutting from the top of the ridge. There was a final crest, and by 11 a.m. the Seaforths possessed their objective.

"We gave the enemy a very bad licking there," an officer said. Capt. Harris' company leapt through the battalion, and went for more high ground east of the Troina River, within sight of Aderno. The troops went over the Troina River, across the Troina-Aderno Road, and battled their way into a ridge with tank support.

PATS TAKE OVER

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry of Victoria and Winnipeg then came into the line, took over the ridge and consolidated the position, while the Seaforths teamed up with a tank regiment for the final phase of the attack, with their target high ground in front of Aderno, overlooking the Simeto Valley.

This attack was the climax of Gen. Simonds' plan for the mountain thrust across this trackless country. During the night of Aug. 4-5, the attack was teed up and shortly after dawn the advance began. The Seaforths were actually under command of a tank colonel, who was directing the infantry-tank attack.

The Seaforth's colonel rode into battle in the same tank as the armored unit commander. In this way they achieved complete co-operation in this model action which was witnessed by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the 8th Army, and Gen. Simonds.

The lead-off troops were a reconnaissance unit commanded by Maj. Art Duck of Kamloops, B.C., in armored cars and Bren carriers. After the reconnaissance unit came two troops of tanks and Maj. Blair's infantry, supported by two more troops of tanks.

The rest of the infantry followed, including the companies commanded by Bell-Irving, Thomas and Harris. Then came another squadron of tanks. This was a potent striking force.

The Seaforths riding forward on tanks, clinging to turrets, guns and hulls, advanced for two miles. As they were getting off the tanks for an assault, the Germans began to fire. This did not dismay the Canadians. The leading tanks immediately attacked the German positions, followed by Blair's company and more tanks.

The enemy had no anti-tank guns, illustrating how completely surprise was achieved. There were anti-tank guns all along the main road from Regalbuto to Aderno, where the Canadian push was awaited but never came.

RIDGE IN TUMULT

The whole ridge was in tumult as the tanks pressed on with guns blazing to gain ground on the right side of the ridge. Bell-Irving's company followed in after Blair.

The enemy shelled and mortared the Canadians, but the two Seaforth companies, with tanks thundering around them, stormed towards the top of the ridge. It was some of the fiercest fighting in Sicily and went on for hours.

Finally, in midafternoon in torrid heat and dust, the Seaforths closed with the Germans and there was a bloody exchange of grenades at 30 and 40 yards. The Seaforths hurled Mills bombs and the enemy replied with stick grenades that looked like potato mashers, and some small hand grenades.

But the Seaforths, tossing in their grenades as if in a ball game, unflinchingly pressed the attack. With one last volley of grenades the Seaforths gained the broad portion of the ridge at about 4 o'clock.

"The Seaforths shot hell out of the enemy here and routed a large number of them after inflicting heavy casualties," said the colonel.

"I think that in the final close-in fighting it was the superiority of our hand grenades that did the job."

Following the initial success, two companies of Thomas' unit went forward to the centre of the ridge. They were heavily mortared but reached their objective at 6 with the aid of tanks. They held the position until the morning of Aug. 6, when they were relieved by the Carleton and York regiment.

The Seaforth colonel said he could not praise the troops enough.

"If anybody makes a crack about tanks in the Seaforths' camp he'd be in grave peril, and I think the same goes for cracks about the Seaforths in the tank camp," he said. "I have never seen such co-operation."

"After the battle the tanks turned over their water to us for our wounded. They even brought up rations for us in their tanks."

First Indecency Trial Opens in Police Court

Trial of William Lister on a charge of committing an act of gross indecency with another male person, began in city police court today, but was adjourned at the request of Stuart Henderson, counsel for Lister, that an engineer's plan of the public rest room on the Causeway be secured.

Detective George Clayards testified today that last Tuesday evening he had visited the rest room with Constable Angus Munro. The two officers, Detective Clayards said, hid in the rear of the room.

Witness said the lights had been removed from the rest room. A large man and the accused entered, he said. At a sign from himself, Constable Munro turned on a flashlight and he saw the pair committing the act.

The two tried to escape when Detective Clayards announced that they were the police. In the scuffle which followed, the detective said, a dog, which on cross-examination he said belonged to the accused Lister, grabbed hold of Constable Munro's legs.

Lister is the first of eight men charged with gross indecency to go to trial.

Wife of Soldier Held As Kidnapper; Lost Baby Found

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — Tiny Judith Gurney, kidnapped from the Albany hospital last Tuesday, was found alive and healthy Monday night, and police today investigated the bizarre story of a 26-year-old wife of a soldier charged with the abduction.

District Attorney Harlow Weirick said the woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, fooled her husband, a young couple living with her and neighbors through nine months of feigned pregnancy, then appeared at home last Tuesday with a two-day-old baby.

She confessed to a child-stealing charge, Weirick said, but only after her story of giving birth to the child in the Albany hospital had been refuted by nurses and doctors who said she had not been a patient and by a doctor's examination which Weirick said proved she had not borne a child within five years.

Police held her husband, Sgt. Jesse Wright, as a material witness.

At the hospital the baby was identified from footprints. In the Wright home police found a hospital bracelet, used to identify babies. It bore the name, "Gurney."

Judith was restored to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney, who had pleaded by press and radio for the kidnapper to give up the tot.

Wastage of Heat Will Be Offence Under New Order

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions Minister Howe said Monday night that an Order-in-Council will be passed which will make it an offence to waste coal or heat, and that the order will apply to everyone — householders as well as commercial and industrial users.

In an address over CBC Mr. Howe said that under the Order-in-Council maximum temperatures will be established for industrial plants and commercial and other buildings, the temperature to vary according to the need.

"For example," he said, "less heat will be permitted in theatres, auditoriums and other public buildings where people gather for short periods and where warm clothing can be worn when this type of building is not in use, the temperature will be reduced drastically."

"Temperatures in schools will be dropped sharply as soon as school is out. The same will apply to office buildings after working hours. These are only a few of the measures which must be taken if we are to reduce the consumption of coal in industrial plants and commercial and other buildings."

BIG SAVING

The minister said certain industries have already made considerable headway in conserving coal, and it is estimated that through these measures more than 100,000 tons have been saved.

To achieve the purpose of the order a nation-wide conservation program will be launched, with the object of saving at least 20 per cent of the coal which was burned last year.

"This means," said Mr. Howe, "that if you burned five tons last year we will expect you to burn four tons this year."

There are several ways in which this can be done. Among them are the improvement of insulation, the cleaning of pipes and furnaces, and better-fitting windows and doors, especially storm sashes.

The minister said the government will ask owners of commercial buildings and industrial plants to appoint special coal wardens, whose duty it will be to see that every possible conservation measure is taken.

"We will expect the owners of commercial buildings and industrial plants to see to it that equipment used for the generation and transmission of heat is maintained in first-class condition."

No increase in production can provide for all the Dominion's heating needs, and consumption of coal must be reduced. At present, coal reserves are "very much below" those of a year ago, while the need is greatly in excess of that of last year.

SHORTAGE

Consequently, more coal must be produced, and less saved. Otherwise we will be several million tons short during the coming winter. Normally, Canada burns about 30,000,000 tons of coal in a year, about half of which is mined in Canada.

"During 1943," Mr. Howe said,

'Shooting Stars' Due Tonight

A spectacular shower of "shooting stars" is due to begin tonight, continuing until Friday night. If you stay up after midnight any of these nights you should be repaid by seeing as many as 50 to 100 meteors an hour. The earth will cross the path of the Perseid meteors at that time, but the entire month is considered good for seeing these bits of celestial dust.

"The falling stars" are not stars at all, but tiny objects within our own atmosphere. Some are no larger than grains of sand and cannot be seen until they strike the earth's atmosphere, when the meteor's violent motion is suddenly checked. Friction heats them so they burn brightly for a few seconds, then vanish.

HUNDRED MILES UP

Meteors seldom appear higher than 100 miles, and most of them disappear before getting within 30 miles of the earth. They rush through our atmosphere at a rate of about 26 miles a second, but usually disintegrate before they reach the earth. The few that do land are called meteorites, but there is no known case of anyone having been hit by one.

On any clear, moonless night several meteors may be seen within an hour or so. On certain nights each year, however, as many as one a minute may be seen.

There are several definite swarms of meteors which move around the sun in elliptic orbits. When the earth crosses one of these swarms, the meteors are much more numerous. The shower seems to radiate from a particular location in the sky. Actually this is as much the effect of perspective as the railroad tracks which seem to converge in the distance, for meteors travel in parallel paths.

Sicily Casualties Comparatively Light, Ralston States

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Ralston said today casualties "sustained by the Canadian Army in Sicily have been moderate in proportion to the number of troops involved."

The statement was made in a release from Defence Headquarters containing the minister's comments following his return Monday from a 10-day visit to the United Kingdom.

He gave no indication of the number of casualties but said they were considered moderate. In view of the particularly heavy and bitter fighting which prevailed in the first 25 days of the Sicilian campaign.

While in the United Kingdom he conferred with Prime Minister Churchill, Sir James Grigg, Secretary of State for War; officers of the Imperial General Staff, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Army commander; and senior officers at Canadian Military Headquarters in London on matters relating to the manning, equipment, training and employment of the Canadian Active Army.

Dairy Workers Vote To Strike in Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — Members of the Calgary Dairy Union have voted to strike Wednesday at midnight.

Before the meeting it had been unofficially expected the strike, if called, would be effective Tuesday. The change in the deadline was made to give K. A. Pugh, Industrial Relations Officer, Edmonton, another chance to approach the dairies.

About 230 men and women are involved in the dispute, which is deadlocked on the dairy management's objection to recognizing the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"We expect to burn 47,000,000 tons — more than half as much again as we burn in a normal year."

"The government," the minister said, "will do its part to see that the householder does not freeze. But whether it will be possible to provide enough coal to maintain comfortable temperatures will depend on the householder himself and the industrial and commercial user."

"We will help you with your conservation plan, but the conservation program can succeed only with your active assistance."

"I appeal to you to act tomorrow — do not wait until the heating season begins, for then it will be too late. In this way you can help your government to distribute the coal supply so that no one will suffer from a lack of heat during the winter months."

The swarm which we will cross around Thursday, Aug. 12, is called the Perseid meteor shower because they seem to radiate from the constellation of Perseus, the champion, which can be seen in the northeast about midnight. For more than a century they have been observed practically every year, and some records of them date back to 830 A.D.

METEORS WILL SHINE

The moon, which is between first quarter and full, fortunately will set about 1.30 a.m. After that the sky will be dark and the meteors shine without serious competition.

Meteors are about twice as numerous after midnight as before. In the earlier part of the evening we see only those "shooting stars" which catch up with us. After midnight we are riding on the front side of the earth as it moves along its orbit and see those which we meet head-on as well.

Meteor observation is a task in which many amateurs may help the professional. Their aid is more essential than ever this year because so many who formerly served as observers are now with the armed forces. One astronomer who is glad to receive such reports is Dr. Charles P. Olivier of the University of Pennsylvania and president of the American Meteor Society, whose address is Flower Observatory, Upper Darby, Pa.

A count by half-hourly periods, such as from midnight to 12.30, 12.30 to 1 a.m., 1.00 to 1.30, and so on, would be helpful. In reporting such data, give the location from which you observed and also a statement of the extent of cloudiness during the period you watched. Particularly brilliant meteors should be described.

Wood Fuel Shortage Termed 'Critical'

OTTAWA (CP) — In a move to conserve wood fuel, the Munitions Department announces that a ban has been placed on the construction of new charcoal kilns or additions to existing kilns.

The new order, issued by wood fuel controller J. S. Whalley, also prohibits, except by permit, the production of charcoal from any kiln or other facility not now in use or available for immediate use.

Mr. Whalley said the over-all Canadian shortage of wood fuel is "critical."

"Various municipalities, both large and small, have recognized the seriousness of the situation and are taking practical action to relieve their own shortage," he said. "On the other hand, scores of other municipalities have done nothing, and their citizens face extreme hardship next winter."

In one large city in British Columbia, a council committee has been set up and is already making contracts with large and small producers to obtain 100,000 cords. In the past, British Columbia has depended largely on sawdust, slabwood and mill waste from its sawmills. This year, bushwood is being cut to supplement the supply of sawmill by-products.

Mr. Whalley emphasized that where municipal action is being taken, the dealers also are alive to the seriousness of the situation and are making their own arrangements for necessary, additional supplies.

"Because fuel wood cutting is usually done by small operators who employ only a handful of men, local problems of supply can best be dealt with by such bodies as municipal councils, service clubs or citizen committees," he said. "When any such body recognizes and accepts its responsibility, and comes to the wood fuel control for help, it will be given every possible assistance."

He noted that the Dominion government already has recognized the wood fuel shortage as an emergency and is paying subsidies.

"Where necessity is proved, an allowance will be paid for the transportation of cordwood or slabwood contracted for in an area outside the normal supply area," he said. "In addition the government will pay $1 per cord subsidy on wood cut and held for wood-fuel-dealers' account before Dec. 31."

LONDON (CP) — The Morocco radio broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, quoted the German clandestine radio station today as saying that the German foreign ministry has been moved from Berlin.

Iron Fireman Stokers in Commercial and Industrial Sizes Are Still Available!

This statement surprises many people who should know better. While the manufacture of domestic stokers up to 60 pounds size has been prohibited by Government order, there are no restrictions on the manufacture, sale and installation of coal stokers in sizes larger than 60 pounds per hour capacity.

2 Montreal Boys Die After Drinking Beer

MONTREAL (CP) — Two teen-aged boys died in hospital today from effects of poison which police believe may have been given them in a glass of beer. Police officials said they heard a report that the boys, Marcel Roy, 14, and Marcel St. Jean, 15, had accepted a glass of beer Monday from a stranger and that it was thought some acid had been placed in the glass.

Big Tire Production Predicted for 1944

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Three Los Angeles plants are expected to produce enough synthetic rubber for 16,000,000 automobile tires a year after operations start "within two months."

Gordon Hendry of the United States Rubber Co. said here the Los Angeles plants would have a combined production rate of 900,000 tons annually, which could be translated into 16,000,000 tires. The plants, he said, will be operated jointly by United States Rubber and the Goodyear Rubber Co. under federal supervision.

Churchill-F.D.R. Meet Suggested for Canada

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times in a copyright dispatch from Washington today said reports were current in the capital that President Roosevelt soon would consult with Prime Minister Churchill and suggested Canada would be an appropriate meeting place.

Reports that Mr. Roosevelt would soon consult with important personages have been current in Washington and have recently been broadcast by the Axis, the dispatch said. "There were even suggestions that he would meet with Winston Churchill, the British Prime Minister, and that Canada would be an appropriate setting for a sixth Roosevelt-Churchill meeting; the war's progress and especially the plight of Italy would be natural topics for discussion."

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A west coast reader has written to reprove me, courteously and in sorrow rather than in anger, for referring to the Japanese as "barbarians" and "savages."

He says: (1) That these terms are unsuitable, and (2) That they are unworthy of this columnist. Having lived among the Japanese for 43 years, he has found them cultured, courteous and democratic. They will return to democracy when they get out from under the military dictators who now hold them down.

Well, I hasten to admit that it isn't good form to toss opprobrium about loosely. Obviously, too, 73,000,000 Japanese can't all be bad. Further, a news analyst isn't permitted to have any emotions when he is writing.

I still feel, however, that the vast majority of the Japanese are savages at heart. It's easy enough to teach a savage to use a knife and fork, but that doesn't change his instincts.

I have before me a dispatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent on New Georgia Island, out in the Pacific. He records a report made by Lieut. Nicholas T. Kliebert about the manner in which Japanese soldiers bayoneted helpless wounded soldiers to death. In one instance five of the savages (?) propped a wounded man against a tree and took turns bayoneting him.

"They cut one of the poor lads from the top of his head to his feet," says the lieutenant, "meanwhile laughing deliriously. Then they shot him through the head."

On March 10, 1942, the British government indicted Japan for barbarities at Hongkong paralleling those during the sacking of Nanking in 1937. Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons that the Japanese forces occupying Hongkong committed such horrors as the bayoneting of 50 helpless, bound officers and soldiers, and the indiscriminate raping and murder of Asiatic and European women.

Of course, one instance of that sort, or 10, shouldn't condemn an entire country. But that's the pattern of the whole Nipponese fabric. It may be said that the Japanese soldiers are merely carrying out orders, for the purpose of terrifying enemy people. That's not good enough, however, for no civilized soldier would execute an order of that sort.

One of the outstanding characteristics of the savage is that he strikes by stealth. The Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor while two of their emissaries talked peace in Washington.

From Emperor Hirohito, who places his seal of approval on such acts, down to the soldier who rapes the woman and then bayonets her, the Japanese have savage instincts, despite their veneer of civilization. I'm one of those who believe that human nature can be changed. On that basis the nature of the Nipponese can be changed—in the course of generations.

Meantime it is vital that we recognize what sort of people we are up against. We have a bitter job to do, and that is to render them so utterly impotent in the military sense that they won't, in 100 years, be able to arm themselves again to commit aggression.

And when this war is over we shall have fought in vain if such criminals as Hirohito and Tojo, and Hitler and Mussolini—and their captains—are not brought to book for their sins. We said this during the first Great War, too. There was a lot of talk about punishment of war guilt—hanging the Kaiser, and that sort of thing—but in the end nobody had the guts to do anything about it.

Even now some say that terrific international scandals will be exposed if the big war criminals are placed on trial. Others claim that such trials will establish precedents which might be turned against one of the Allied countries if it happened to be defeated in a subsequent war.

Still, the Allied chiefs have promised that the guilty shall suffer after this war, and all the signs are that they intend to carry this out.

Social Credit Candidates On Prairies Lose Deposits

By the Canadian Press

Four federal seats, formerly held by Liberal members of Parliament, went to opposition candidates in by-election voting Monday—two in western Canada to C.C.F. standard-bearers, one in Quebec to a Bloc Populaire representative and the fourth, also in Quebec, to a Labor Progressive.

The voting left the standing in the House of Commons at: Liberals 170, Liberal Progressives 3, Liberal Independents 3, Progressive Conservatives 39, C.C.F. 11, Social Credit 10, Bloc Populaire 4, Independents 3, Unity 1, Labor Progressive 1.

With no Progressive Conservative candidate contesting any of the seats, the Liberals went down to defeat to Fred Rose, Labor Progressive candidate, in Montreal Cartier, and to Armand Choquette, Bloc Populaire candidate, in Stanstead, Que.

Unsuccessful in both Quebec ridings, the C.C.F. emerged victorious in the two western constituencies, where William Bryce, C.C.F., defeated both Liberal and Social Credit candidates in Selkirk, Man., and Joseph W. Burton, C.C.F. candidate, was elected in Humboldt, Sask.

SOCREDS LOSE OUT

In both western ridings, the Social Credit party did not obtain a thousand votes, and in all four ridings, the soldier vote was confined to those servicemen able to vote in their home ridings.

A veteran member of the C.C.F., Mr. Burton is a farmer in the Humboldt district, while Mr. Bryce is a prominent Manitoba agriculturist, farming in the Duval district, 25 miles east of Winnipeg.

The Humboldt and Selkirk seats were both formerly represented by Liberal members. The late Dr. H. R. Fleming was the member for Humboldt, while Hon. J. T. Thorson, now president of the Exchequer Court of Canada, represented Selkirk.

Mr. Bryce's victory in Selkirk appeared to be more decisive than in the 1940 general election when Mr. Thorson had a majority of 4,154 over his C.C.F. opponent in a three-cornered race.

TO LOSE DEPOSIT

With 29 scattered polls to report, Mr. Bryce had a lead of 5,361 over Mr. Fillmore, who also is likely to lose his deposit. The vote in the by-election was more than 20 per cent below the 1940 total of 21,782.

In Humboldt, the lead for the C.C.F. nominee over the Liberal also showed a larger reverse than in 1940, when the late Dr. Fleming defeated F. J. Bolster by a majority of 1,272. Mr. Burton's lead, with seven polls to report, was 3,341. Like Selkirk, the Humboldt voting was lighter than in 1940 when the vote was 16,344.

Maxime Raymond, leader of the newly-formed Bloc Populaire and member of Parliament for Beauharnois-LaPrairie, said that "Quebec has repudiated the war policy of Mr. King in such a fashion that the present government has no longer the right to speak in its name."

The Liberal defeat in the four by-elections follows by only a few days the defeat of the Ontario Liberal government in last Wednesday's provincial general election.

Close behind Rose in Montreal Cartier came the Bloc Populaire nominee, Paul Masse, while Liberal Lazarus Phillips and David Lewis of the C.C.F. trailed, followed far back by Independent Moses Miller.

CLOSE CONTEST

Choquette was the victor in a closely-contested campaign in Stanstead, with Liberal R. G. Davidson close behind and Pierre Thomas, C.C.F. far off.

Practically all Cartier's 164 polls had reported before the election of Mr. Rose was certain. Final results gave him 5,784 votes, with Mr. Masse collecting 5,462, Mr. Phillips 4,129 and Mr. Lewis, national secretary of the C.C.F., 3,302. Moses Miller lost his deposit with 107 votes.

The result was in doubt until close to the end in Stanstead also, with the final results showing Mr. Choquette ahead with 6,702 votes in the 66 polls, compared with 5,390 for Mr. Davidson and Mr. Thomas last with 248.

'BLOW TO FINANCE'

HUMBOLDT, Sask. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, said today that the election of C.C.F. members in the federal by-elections of Selkirk and Humboldt constituencies Monday "further emphasizes the determination of the Canadian people to end the control of this country by monopolistic finance."

"Following the splendid showing of the C.C.F. in Ontario, the results of the by-election in Humboldt and Selkirk are exceptionally encouraged," he said.

Rev. T. C. Douglas, Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader, said Mr. Burton's victory was "a sweeping condemnation of the manner in which the federal government has treated western agriculture."

Vancouver Troops Take to Horses For Reconnaissance

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY (Delayed, CP)—For mountain fighting in the push from Leonforte to Aderno the Seaford Highlanders of Canada organized a horse cavalry troop to make reconnaissance and patrols where their Bren carriers could not move.

(In a dispatch Saturday Munro credited the Seafords with the attack that brought about the capture of Aderno and the subsequent smashing of the German Mount Etna line. He said the Highlanders, supported by a tank unit, climaxed a 15-mile, two-day fighting advance by capturing the high ground dominating the Simeo River and menacing Aderno.)

Sixteen snipers and scouts from the regiment mounted horses and patrolled far ahead of the battalion, getting much valuable information and helping the advance greatly. The unorthodox mounted troop was commanded by Sgt. Gordon McKee of Vancouver.

However, the original mounted scout and sniper in the regiment is Cpl. John Moore, also of Vancouver but a native of Medicine Hat, Alta. He has been riding horses all the way through Sicily while the other Canadians have had to slog onward mainly by foot.

The success of this former Vancouver barista and broker was so phenomenal the troop was developed. But even with others competing with him, Moore is still the leading sniper, with 19 Germans, including one major and a captain, to his credit.

And that 19 was amassed by abiding by his rule that only German officers or snipers are counted.

Protective metal coats are applied to metal castings, assemblies or structures by the use of metal-spray guns which contain electrically heated melting pots, the spraying being operated by air pressure.

Letters to Editor

RE BIBLE IN SCHOOLS

In the Times of yesterday a letter appeared raising a question which interests me enough to take pen, raising a question which is an issue. Not having read the "poser" and reply, one can at least stand untrammelled by prejudice.

It appears to me that the subject is man—his creation and being. That being so, let us continue. At the outset let us define the position: the writer is an unflinching, uncompromising advocate of the Bible being read in schools. Let us read "the Word" and get the facts. After the necessary preliminaries, it states "God made—created—man in His own image, in the image, likeness, of God created He him; male and female created He them" Amen to this.

It appears that matters relative to import are gone over and so with this—"the Word" continues: "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the earth and breathed into his nostrils the 'breath of life'—and man became a living soul." Amen to this.

The Word further states that "God blessed them and said be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth and have dominion," etc.

Such is the recorded, defined status of man's birth. Any objection? The Bible was given to the world in the beautiful language of the Renaissance period—its translators—Tyndall in particular—living in fear of their lives—hiding and doing their God-given, wonderful work in the most abject poverty and humility. What for?

"God works in a mysterious way His wonders to perform."

But certainly not that the race of man should glory in its ability to subdue, distort and nullify its origin and destiny. It is not asked that any attempt to satisfy any, or many, concerning the things read into the Bible—suffice it to read, "God hath made men upright, but they have sought out many inventions"; and "He teacheth the wise in their own conceits—craftiness."

Granted that there are many things hard to understand or believe—many misinterpretations;

Do you know?

many great truths; many promises yet to be fulfilled. Thank God for this. Where is it better that they be instilled than in the daily schools—by a 15-minute reading under the direction of men and women who will—and can demand that these things be so. Read Daniel 12: 8 to 13.

We are existing in the most wonderful era—the greatest era of recorded prophecy, a new era. Now is the time that justice demands an alignment and that "great truths" so dearly bought become widely known that man be ready for the time when, as Browning so aptly states, "Then shall his long triumphant march begin."

HOUSING PROBLEMS

It is indeed a deplorable state of affairs and a disgrace to our vaunted civilization when the wives of men who are doing their bit to help civilians live in peace and comfort cannot find shelter for themselves and their children. Abominable hardships exist for these under present prevailing conditions.

The time has passed when civilians without children with accommodation for such in this sorry plight should be asked to help shelter them. It should be demanded by law that they do so. These home-seekers are not asking for charity; they are ready and willing to pay for a roof over their heads. There are a great many childless people who could do their bit for their country and in some part repay the obligation they are under to those who are helping to defend their homes and their peace and security by giving shelter to the dependents of these men.

People over 50 should not be called upon to perform this duty until the younger ones without children have made the sacrifice of some part of their comfort; for older people are not so well able to stand the strain of having strangers in their house.

Kicked In Four Seats

ONE CORRESPONDENT AT THE NATIONAL capital wrote to his newspaper last Saturday and said the Liberals in Ottawa were awaiting the results of the by-elections—fought yesterday—"like a man who does not know whether he is going to be kicked or kissed." Neither from Montreal-Cartier, Stanstead, Selkirk nor Humboldt did the King government feel the touch of a caress. The electors in all four constituencies kicked these seats from the Liberal column. Nor can the verdict be ascribed to any crowding of the list of candidates by the official opposition, Mr. Bracken and his party, in their wisdom, remained aloof. How Progressive Conservatives voted is another matter.

The administration may find some extenuating circumstances to mitigate its disappointment in the results of the five-cornered fight in Stanstead and in the three-man contest in Montreal-Cartier. But all the consolation it can extract from Selkirk and Humboldt is that only a relatively few voters noticed the names of the Social Crediters on the ballot; and that is cold comfort with a vengeance. The real battle in these Manitoba and Saskatchewan ridings, of course, was between a government supporter and a standard-bearer of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. No alibi will serve in either case. A substantial majority evidently had a protest to make and made it. When the House of Commons resumes its deliberations next January—or earlier if circumstances warrant—four former Liberal seats will be occupied by two new C.C.F. members, a Progressive-Laborite, and another representative of the Bloc Populaire.

While Mr. Mackenzie-King could afford to dispense with the kick which the Ottawa correspondent referred, the kick administered in four places should jolt the old-line parties out of their smug complacency. Yesterday's revelation, following so speedily on that which resounded through Ontario last week, proclaims one potent fact from the house-tops: Not even spacious Canada has room any longer for a three-party political system.

Words Of Caution

ABLE AND CAUTIOUS SECRETARY OF State Cordell Hull warned the people of the United States yesterday against the type of optimism which often generates a dangerous state of complacency. This is timely advice; it should be heeded by all the peoples of all the United Nations. The democratic coalition has turned the corner. It is the enemy's turn to do the major part of the worrying; he does not know from one day to the next where he is going to be hit. No longer are Axis leaders meeting with their military chiefs to arrange some new offensive; those days have gone. They are now strategists of defence—their job to discover how best to meet Allied attacks which may be launched at one or half a dozen points on the outer ring of Hitler's "Festung Europa" at the same time.

What should be remembered, as we note Mr. Hull's injunction, is that bitter battles of this war are still to come. To be sure, the various commands of the United Nations in the major theatres of the conflict are able to irritate the enemy by keeping him guessing. The Japanese are feeling the relentless pressure which General MacArthur is applying in the southwest Pacific. German and Italian troops in Sicily are nearing the coffin suffered by Axis legions in Tunisia's "coffin corner." The much-vaunted Wehrmacht which had hoped to break the southern section of the Russian line a month ago is now in full retreat over an area which stretches from northwest of Orel to northwest of Kharkov—a distance of more than 300 miles. Both the latter city and the vital key point of Bryansk may soon be in Soviet hands. And by way of an addition to eminently successful progress in these three spheres of operation there is the unwavering war in the air which ignores all boundaries or fixed and fluid ground lines. It is this phase of the war which is worrying the men who are trying to hold Nippon's far-flung posts; it is a phase of the war which is trying the souls of men and women in the Reich and spreading fear in the Italy which Fascist Marshal Badoglio evidently intends to keep in the struggle by hook or by crook.

Mr. Hull knows, just as well as Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt know, that unless some unexpected upheaval should change the course of the men of Berlin—whether future German strategy is to be planned by Hitler or whether it shall be dictated by a military junta—the decisive battles may have to be fought east of the Rhine. Accelerated bombing, and the tempo will increase as the nights grow longer, will help to clear the way for the Allies to get at grips with the enemy on the Atlantic coastline somewhere between the North Cape and Cape Finisterre. But such invasions will inevitably be extremely costly undertakings; and the nature of the advance planning that will be necessary cannot be calculated by the great feat of transportation which preceded the initial assault on Sicily. Never since the war began, therefore, has the need to avoid every kind of complacency been greater than at the present juncture.

The Chinese Appeal

THE CHINESE WAR RELIEF FUND campaign which has been launched to raise at least $1,000,000 provides an opportunity for which the people of Canada have been waiting. It is an opportunity to demonstrate in a practical way our admiration for the Chinese people and for the armies of China that have been waging such a magnificent fight against militaristic Japan.

Canadians are mindful of the fact that the Chinese were the first to be in the open fight against the Axis. They have been in it with everything they have had for six long years, which takes us back to the time when some folk were still refusing to think of war as possible or of the Axis as a menace. Short of weapons and equipment, the Chinese have made up the deficiency by their courage and devotion, struggling heroically to beat back savage Japanese aggression. Their example has been an inspiration to the whole world of free peoples. They are deserving of every support we can give them.

The people of British Columbia, who have had reason to be more alive to the Japanese menace than residents of other parts of Canada, may be counted upon to respond with generous support to the appeal of this fund.

Easy To Cheat Cheaters

ONE PIECE OF ADVICE TO WHICH Vancouver's Chief of Police Donald McKay gave voice to the mainland city's Board of Police Commissioners last Friday afternoon should be heeded carefully by all whom it may concern. He says if people would keep their money in the banks instead of in their pockets, the guardians of the law under his charge would not have to worry anything like so much about stolen property as they do in these days of wartime prosperity, or what goes by the name of prosperity. One instance which emphasized this truism was the case of a man recently relieved of $1,100 by three strangers with whom he struck up a chance acquaintance—presumably a victim of the old confidence trick with the promise of easy money. "Some fellows," observed the Police Chief, "shouldn't be on the streets with 20 cents in their pockets, let alone $1,100." To which Mayor Cornett added: "Some people don't know what a bank is for."

What people do with their money, of course, is their own business. But there is an excellent way of keeping it safe which the most unimaginative person can understand; he can put it into War Savings Certificates and let it earn dividends. If he does that, he is not only disappointing the high-pressure salesmen, the men who almost get out of breath explaining schemes for making his fortune; he is also building a nest-egg upon which he will be able to draw when the big wages of today give place to normal earnings later on. From time immemorial, however, the light-fingered enemy have played on weak minds and easily-opened pocket-books. Now is the time to make it difficult for these vultures to earn a living in their own nefarious way. The smart citizen these days is the one who invests in the future of Canada by buying War Savings Certificates or any other form of government security.

What Are They?

ONE REMARK WHICH GENERAL GIRAUD let drop while he was in Ottawa recently seems to have caused some eyebrows to elevate in this country and in the United States. He is reported to have said at his press conference that National Socialism has to its credit some magnificent accomplishments. The New Republic of New York is curious to know whether he added that it had made the trains run on time. "We do know, however," observes the well-known weekly, "that the General must have been an embarrassment to the American State Department, which has argued as one of its reasons for supporting Giraud that de Gaulle has Fascist sympathies."

General Giraud still insists he is "only a simple soldier" without the least political desire. On numerous occasions he has emphasized his one aim and object in life—the liberation of his beloved France from the yoke of her Nazi taskmasters. So talks the soldier who twice has been the unwilling "guest" of the German government; and twice he has escaped with sad memories of prison life. But it was not surprising that Dr. L. M. Birkhead, a director of the Friends of Democracy, should be promptly interested in the "magnificent accomplishments" of the Hitlerian regime. Whether he obtained a list of them we are not told.

Nothing in the foregoing is to suggest that General Giraud is anything but a true patriot of the unhappy country he has served so faithfully and well. On the doubtful assumption that Nazism has achieved something to which history may be inclined to point with pride, however, what is on the debit side of the ledger? What most of the Allied world hopes is that General Giraud, if he is moved to say anything good about National Socialism, will not cast any new doubts on the minds of those millions of people who have been disturbed by the conflict of view between himself and General de Gaulle. In view of the visible settlement of their differences these gallant Frenchmen should now be able to work amicably together until their native land is rid of its despoilers.

Notes

Complaint about food rationing would be more impressive if the complainers didn't have 50-inch waists.

Hour by hour the Allied forces are getting better set to see that Germany's and Japan's intentions are carried out—on a stretcher.

FACE THE FACTS

THE LATEST NEWS coming out of Russia is disquieting and for this reason, apparently, we are not supposed to talk about it. We are supposed, out of loyalty and a spirit of co-operation, to ignore it. We shall ignore it at our peril.

The news, of course, is that the Russian government has permitted, if it has not sponsored, a movement among German refugees to agitate for a peace between Russia and Germany. This could mean, though there is nothing to confirm this suspicion, that Russia would make a separate peace with Germany to suit itself, when convenient. It is impossible to believe that such a thing could happen.

But it is complete folly not to understand just what such a step would mean, to be overcome by fine phrases and ingenious rationalizations. The London Times has begun already to rationalize it and suggests that one way to establish the next peace is to allow Russia to decide its terms alone in all areas where Russian interests are predominant, and to allow Britain to decide the terms where British interests are predominant.

Dressed up in one of The Times august editorials, this sounds fine. It sounds highly moral and brand new, a great discovery of statecraft. Actually, it is nothing but Munich under a new name, and about it cling all the evil odors of 20 years of international anarchy.

If each of the great powers is to decide the terms of the peace in its own region, and wherever it considers its interests predominant, then all the theories of the Atlantic Charter, the Four Freedoms and all the fine idealism of this war for which many brave men are dying at this hour become a mockery and the most cynical betrayal in all history.

ALLIANCE

FOR IF EACH of the great powers is to move by itself, as it pleases, there will not only be no collective security under a league of nations, with protection for the weak; there will not even be an alliance of the strong. There can be no alliance while allies act independently in great affairs. An alliance, in fact, is nothing more than an agreement not to act in specific matters independently, and to act co-operatively in other specific matters.

The opposite theory of complete independence would produce only a return to the methods of the last 20 years in which Japan acted independently in China, Italy in Ethiopia and Germany in Austria, in Czechoslovakia and Poland. We went to war to halt this very process. If we are to establish it again after this war, under a facade of fine words and highly respectable editorials in The Times, then we shall produce all over again the same old results.

In a world where the four great powers failed to effect an alliance, failed to settle the peace by co-operation and agreement, there could be no security for anyone. There could be no enduring prosperity for anyone either, since all the powers, suspicious of one another, would have to spend their labor and treasure on preparations for any eventuality, would have to remain armed to the teeth and would have to try to make themselves self-sufficient by high tariffs, the strangulation of trade and continual economic war.

INCONCEIVABLE

OTHER RESULTS would follow. The victors in this war would seek the friendship of the vanquished, as they have always done after great wars. One power or the other would certainly form an alliance with Germany and with Japan, to strengthen itself, and we should shortly see emerging the unmistakable shape of the next war.

It is inconceivable that the Russian government does not understand all this; especially because Russia stood for collective security when we repudiated it, because Russia needs peace to complete its revolution and needs the co-operation of the democracies to supply its own deficiencies.

Do we in the democracies fully understand these things? Perhaps we do in the British Commonwealth, but there is no final assurance that the American people do, and without their full participation any stable peace is impossible. No one knows what will come out of the United States Senate when a peace treaty goes in. No one knows what diabolical trickery the isolationist wing of the Republican Party will give lip-service to world co-operation, as it did in 1919, and betray the hopes of the world and of the American people once it is in office.

It would not be surprising, therefore, if the Russians, a highly practical people, ruled by a highly practical czar, are keeping their powder dry until they see what the United States really means to do. Russia remains a vast question mark, but no vaster than the U. S. Senate.

The best way to assure the worst results from all this is to refuse to look at these possibilities and to imagine, as we did for 20 years, that facts can be removed and painted over by words, even in The London Times.

REPORT FROM CHINA

The New York Herald Tribune sees, in the Chinese proclamation that "the war situation is now completely favorable," a sure sign that the Chinese now appreciate what Allied success in the west can mean to them. For while they were too preoccupied to understand.

"That China is the one quarter in which a little dose of the most has come to be a truism. Before this also is said so often that it ceases to mean anything, let us repeat that brilliantly as that little has been used, the credit for the results goes to the Chinese spirit, which, as they say, bends and rights itself like bamboo in a gale, but never breaks."

Developments In S. Europe Prove Triumph of Allied Political Strategy

Like many other natives of occupied countries in Europe, these Yugoslavs had refused to do any work for the Axis cause. Sent to a concentration camp in Sicily, they were liberated when Canadian forces took Caltagirone. Gladly, now, they are working for the Allies and here are shown clearing away debris in the bombed city.

By THOMAS M. JOHNSON,
Noted Military Writer

THE KNOCKOUT of the Mussolini regime, the probable fall of Italy, and the consequent hastening of Germany's defeat all add up to an unprecedented triumph of grand strategy over realistic military thinking.

In planning their operations, United Nations leaders tossed straight military strategy out the window. They substituted an over-all scheme based on military factors but greatly influenced by political, economic and moral considerations.

The decision to attack Italy was made by the world's two foremost politicians and armchair strategists, Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt. They made it against some military opinion which favored attacking Europe's tough Atlantic tipside instead of its soft underbelly. An attack from above, it was pointed out, would follow the shortest distance to the enemy's heart and solar plexus, which is not Italy, but Germany. Why waste time sparring with his extremists, however flabby? And, they added, even if we conquer all Italy, then we face mountain barriers and are still farther from Germany than we are right now in our excellent base in Britain, only a short distance from home and supplies.

STRATEGY LOOKS GOOD NOW

Excellent, sound strategy—as indeed, all may yet agree. But let us hope not—for the Prime Minister and the President agreed, to disagree with those who propounded it, and today they seem to have called the turn. To be sure, while they counted upon various political advantages in crushing Italy, such as the moral effect of defeating the first dictator, they could point to the fact that Hitler's successes were won by attacking where his enemies were weak—even though that appeared to be a less strategic point—than where he was strong.

Today their grand strategy is working probably better than the two amateurs hoped. And barring new developments, it seems likely to gain solid advantages in pure strategy by sea, land and air.

Italy's surrender would tie up a navy still strong enough to make us keep in the Mediterranean great warship strength that could do precious service in the Atlantic, against submarines, or in guarding an Allied invasion of North Europe. Or the strength could be used in the Pacific swinging naval superiority decisively against the Japanese. Save for a few German submarines, the surrender of Italy would clear the Mediterranean for our supply and troop movements, saving much precious time and tonnage.

We would be able to supply Turkey, who presently may declare war, especially if the Italians yield the Dodecanese Islands off her coast. We also could supply Yugoslavia. Her gallant patriots, already aided by air by the British from Sicily, are reported to have seized part of the Vardar Valley, on the Balkan invasion route.

This report, if true, is especially significant, because the Yugoslavs are operating in liaison with the British, whose 9 and 10 armies in the Near East now are reported preparing to invade the Balkans via Crete. That move would be greatly aided by Italy's fall, which would weaken the German defence through loss not only of the Dodecanese stepping-stones, but of the substantial Italian garrison in the Balkans. And we might not only fly, but ferry supplies and troops across the Adriatic to the Yugoslavs. The Allies, in return, would be reinforced by the freeing of considerable numbers of their troops who now are prisoners in Italy.

GIVES NEW AIR BASES

The air possibilities opened by Italy's fall would be most spectacular and, perhaps, most important of all. From Sardinia and Corsica we could bomb southern France, preparing for possible invasion from Africa. From Italy the routes for ground invasion of France and Yugoslavia are naturally unpromising, but air-borne invasion over the Alps is not impossible, and bomb-invasion certainly is not. From northern Italy our experienced air forces could attack many factories the Nazis have been developing in south Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia to escape the bombings from Britain.

Long-range bombing would have great advantages in military strategy and perhaps in grand strategy. From bases in north Italy our bombers not only could support the Yugoslav patriots, but could bomb Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania, including its oilfields. This thunderbolt from the air and the threat that it would be followed by the lightning of invading Allied ground troops, should shatter the already tottering morale of the satellite nations, and they probably would stop their war in the Balkans against Russia.

All this, including the knockout of Italy, would mean for the Nazis the loss of one-third of all the combat divisions they had fighting for them—a terrific blow. And while they were in all or part of that trouble in south Europe, the United Nations would have a fine chance to attack them from the north, across the Channel. So grand strategy today looks pretty grand.

His SCIATICA has Never Returned

"I've finished with sciatica," says Mr. Faulkner. He's probably right, too. It's a fair bet he's had it. What did he take for it? Let him tell you—

"For 18 months I suffered with chronic sciatica and rheumatic pains," he writes, "and was unable to walk without the aid of a cane. But after taking Kruschen Salts for a short time, I was able to throw away the cane. It is now 4 years since this happened, and I have had no return of the complaint, and have not lost a day from work. I shall never be without Kruschen Salts as they are worth their weight in gold. You can use this letter as you please, as I can honestly recommend Kruschen Salts to any sufferer."—C. Faulkner

JUST ACROSS THE RIVER

From Vancouver Sun
The Canadian city of Windsor lies across the river from the American city of Detroit. Before the war people used to move back and forth between the two every day and they found conditions of life very similar in both.

But today if a Windsor housewife manages to go to Detroit she finds that butter costs from 50 to 60 cents a pound in the American city as against 38 cents at home. Meat prices in Detroit are 50 per cent higher than in Windsor, milk from 3 to 6 cents higher, bread 50 per cent higher. Even American oranges cost 65 cents a dozen in Detroit as against 55 in Windsor.

The Canadian housewife comes home across the river with a sudden new appreciation of the Canadian price ceiling. It would be a good thing if every housewife in Canada could go across the border for just one day and see what is happening there. There would be few complaints against the price ceiling policy which, for all its mistakes, has been the most successful economic experiment ever tried in Canada. Its success can best be judged by what is happening elsewhere.

A NEW WORRY

From Windsor Star
There is always something to worry about. If it is not one thing, it's sure to be another. Here, just when everything seemed to be going along smoothly, we discover a shortage of $10,000 bills in the United States. There are fewer than 2,200 of these in circulation. That is a dreadful state of affairs. With inflation going on apace, the time can come in the U.S. when it will take $10,000 to buy an ice cream cone. With so few of the $10,000 bills, what are they going to tell the kids when they come asking for that amount, where they used to want only a nickel?

LIVING COSTS

From Edmonton Journal
In the United States the cost of living rose 24 per cent and the cost of food 46 per cent between January, 1941 and May, 1943. In Canada the cost of living went up 12 per cent and the cost of food 38 per cent in the similar period.

Personal Notes

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, accompanied by their daughters, Mrs. Glen MacDonald and Miss Mary Twigg Woodward, returned to Government House this morning from Vancouver. Miss Ruth MacLean preceded them back yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. James Angus, Rockland Avenue, are spending a week in Vancouver, guests at the Hotel Georgia.

Miss Beverley Francis arrived from Vancouver Monday to spend a month visiting her grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Hurst, Bay Street.

Miss Oonagh Macklin is over from Vancouver to spend a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Macklin, 513 Head Street, Esquimalt.

Dr. Geo. W. Fletcher, who has been spending the last month in San Francisco, has returned to Victoria to join his wife, who has been staying with her sister, Mrs. Walter Tuck, Simcoe Street.

Miss Violet Wilson, who has been spending the last two months in Alberta, latterly as the guest of Mrs. Donald Brown, Edmonton, will return to Victoria shortly.

Miss Gloria Wilson, who is a student nurse at St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, arrived Monday from the mainland city to spend a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Wilson, "Lagunanan," Uplands.

Rev. S. J. and Mrs. Parsons of Calgary, accompanied by their son, Pat, and daughter, Diane, are spending two weeks' vacation at the home of Mrs. Parsons' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bagnall, East Saanich Road, Royal Oak.

Lieut. M. D. W. McEwan, R.C.N.V.R., and Mrs. McEwan, who have been stationed in Victoria for the past two years, are spending two weeks' leave in Halifax with Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Worth, and will then return to the west coast.

Mrs. Anson D. Mann of Victoria, who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Hon. Ernie F. Willis and Mrs. Willis, in Winnipeg, was the guest of honor when Mrs. S. Morgan entertained at a largely-attended tea for her in the Manitoba capital last week.

Mrs. Isaac Fleming, Heather Street, and her daughter, Miss Evelyn Fleming, left this afternoon for Vancouver, where Miss Fleming's marriage will take place to Mr. Stephen Redgrave. They were accompanied by Miss Hazel Tomlinson, who will be bridesmaid for Miss Fleming.

Miss Doris Holmes, president, was hostess to the members of the Soroptimist Club at her home on Sorrento Street, Sunday, with Miss Alberta Creaser, R.C.N., as the guest of honor. Miss Creaser, who will leave Sept. 1 for the east, was presented with a charming water color, the work of Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, as a farewell gift from the club.

Nursing Sister Dorothy Wiggins and Nursing Sister Dorothy Doyle of the Royal Canadian Naval Nursing Service, were joint hostesses at a tea at the Empress Hotel Sunday afternoon in compliment to a recent bride, Mrs. Don Whiteley, nee Anna Anderson. The tea table was centered with sweet peas in pastel shades, and the party numbered 11 in all.

After visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Curtis, Camosun Street, Mrs. D. H. Sharpe left at the week-end for Claresholm, Alta., to join her husband, LAC David H. Sharpe, who is in training as a pilot there. Miss Barbara Sharpe accompanied her sister-in-law as far as Vancouver, where she will visit for a few days before returning. Former associates of Mrs. Sharpe's at David Spencer Ltd. were at the dock to bid her goodbye, and presented her with a farewell presentation of personal gifts and a corsage bouquet.

Miss Roberta Phelps was the guest of honor when Mrs. Thomas Pendray and Mrs. T. R. Blanco were co-hostesses at a shower held at the home of Mrs. G. Brown, 3132 Quadra Street. Corsage bouquets were presented to the guest of honor, her mother and the groom-elect's mother upon their arrival. The many gifts were concealed in a large watering can decorated in red, white and blue. A buffet supper was served from a table arranged with a centerpiece of sweet peas. Invited guests were: Mrs. A. R. Phelps, Mrs. G. Moffat (New Westminster), Mrs. D. A. Heaslip, Mrs. F. Phelps, Mrs. E. Brown Sr., Mrs. Groves, Mrs. A. Pendray, Mrs. J. Whitehead, Mrs. E. Brown Jr., Mrs. H. Williams, Mrs. E. Dingley, Mrs. Bland, Mrs. Readings and the Misses D. Moffat, Edna Steer and D. Readings.

Miss Denna Nickson has returned to Victoria after visiting Mrs. W. J. Watson at Douglas Lodge, Vancouver.

Mrs. W. L. Walsh returned to Victoria today after spending the last ten days in Vancouver as the guest of Mrs. James Anderson.

Cpl. Joan Hall, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), who has been stationed at Trenton, Ont., where she has just received her corporal's stripe, will arrive in Victoria Thursday to spend leave with her parents, Magistrate and Mrs. H. C. Hall, Craigdarroch, before leaving for her new station at Garden Bay, Newfoundland.

Mrs. C. Eden Quinton arrived yesterday from Seattle to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oates, Woodlawn Crescent, for a few weeks. She was accompanied by her two small sons, Anthony and Rodney, and Prof. C. Eden Quinton, who is a member of the faculty of the University of Washington, will join his family later.

Lieut. Kenneth Winsby, accompanied by his wife, arrived from the east at the week-end, to spend a brief leave with his parents, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. H. T. Winsby, 2612 Cranmore Road. Lieut. Winsby, who left Victoria three years ago for service with the R.C.N., has been attached to the Royal Navy for the last two years. His wife is the former Peggy Wallace of Halifax.

FO. Frank Ward and Mrs. Ward, who have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Ward, 1941 Crescent Road, during a brief furlough, will leave Thursday on their return to Ottawa. They will be accompanied east by Mr. James Barnes, who has also been holidaying here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ward. Both he and FO. Ward are in the National Research branch of the R.C.A.F., Ottawa.

The Misses Sheila Sangster and Joan Pailson were joint hostesses at a shower recently for Miss Isobel Barnes, who is to be married this month to Mr. Frank W. Fraser. The gathering was held at the home of Miss Sangster on Currie Road, and many lovely gifts were received by the bride-to-be. Other guests included Mrs. Charlie Jordan, Mrs. W. Hemmingsen, Mrs. Cy Webster, Mrs. Morris Cross-Smith, Mrs. Walter Laing, Mrs. Herbert Murray, Mrs. Jack Wallace and Mrs. Robert Bradshaw.

Mrs. T. Hammond, director of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was again hostess to the girls of the Sorority when she entertained in honor of Miss Anne Fountain, Director of Delta Chapter, Vancouver; Mrs. Madge Fouracre, Sponsor of Eta Chapter, Nanaimo; and Miss Betty Lamb of Alpha Chapter, Vancouver. The members of Zeta Chapter welcomed the opportunity to meet their sorority sisters from out-of-town chapters, and games and refreshments concluded a most enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Stanley H. Lindgren entertained at a dinner party Monday evening at "Craigmeile," Craigdarroch, when her guests included 10 of the leading members of the Ballet Theatre. The affair was arranged in honor of her son, Robert, who is a member of the company, but who was, unfortunately, unable to accompany them to Victoria. Covers were laid at a table arranged with silver bowls of marginals and greenery, with deep yellow tapers in silver candelabra. Mrs. Lindgren left with the company on the midnight boat for Vancouver, to attend to tonight's performance there, and will be joined in the mainland city by the Misses Marjorie and Betty Lindgren, who are flying over this afternoon.

Miss Kay Conroy was honored at a miscellaneous shower given jointly by Mrs. J. Strong, Mrs. R. Murray and Miss M. Heath. On arrival, the guest was presented with a corsage bouquet of pastel roses, pink and white carnations. The many useful gifts were concealed in a navy duffel-bag. Games were played and the prize-winners were Miss O. Cosgrove and Mrs. P. Conroy. An enjoyable supper was served. Other guests were: Mrs. P. Hummer, Mrs. W. Erickson, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. A. Knudson, Mrs. R. Martin, Mrs. E. Harbette, Mrs. A. James, Mrs. M. Stephenson, Mrs. K. Martin, Mrs. L. Lamb, Mrs. J. Kelly, Mrs. R. Hunter, Mrs. W. Berger, Mrs. N. Foot, Mrs. H. E. Hill, Misses Rose Young, Mickey Talley, Margaret Lamont, Effie Cooper, Edna Andrews, Ben Smith, Evelyn Rose, Kitty Beales and Rose Smith.

Weddings

MARGISON—BISHOP

Two well-known young people were the principals in a pretty wedding at Belmont United Church, Monday evening, at 8, when Miss Dorothy May Bishop became the bride of Mr. Gilbert John Margison. The bride is the elder daughter of Mrs. M. H. Bishop, 1927 Lee Avenue, and the groom, who is well known in local musical circles, is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Margison, 614 Avalon Road.

Rev. H. H. Kerley performed the ceremony against a background of masses of flowers in pink and white shades. During the signing of the register, Mr. Bert Botten played a cello solo. Mr. Philip E. Bishop gave his sister in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, with softly-draped bodice and long sleeves. Her long embroidered veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses and stocks. Her younger sister, Joyce, was the only bridesmaid, in a pretty frock of primrose organza with an embossed white flowers, a small yellow hat trimmed with flowers, and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and orchid sweet peas. Mr. Adolphe Rochon was groomsmen, and Mr. Bert Botten acted as usher.

Many guests were welcomed at the reception held in the church hall, which was decorated with a profusion of flowers and pink and white streamers. Mrs. Bishop received in a Mediterranean blue crepe gown, with blue flowered hat, and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas, assisted by Mrs. Margison, wearing navy and white sheer, with hat en suite, and pink carnations. Pink and white roses decorated the supper table, on which stood the wedding cake.

For the honeymoon up-island, the bride wore a two-piece dress of rust tone, with dull turquoise blue coat, rust hat and accessories. They will make their home temporarily in Victoria on their return, the groom being stationed here with the R.C.A.F.

RURYK—WAKELIN

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Aug. 6 at 9 p.m. when Rev. J. L. W. McLean united in marriage Lorraine Justine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wakelin of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, to John Ruryk, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ruryk of Saskatoon. The organist played the bridal music and Mrs. A. Pednault sang "Because" as the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of broad white satin, with sweetheart neckline, the long veil falling from a coronet of sweetheart roses. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, pink and white carnations.

Miss Marion Ulmer, Vancouver, and Miss Alphonsine Boulet were bridesmaids, dressed alike in floor-length frocks of heavenly blue chiffon with bishop sleeves. They wore hip-length veils of matching tulle, caught to the head with pale pink rosebud coronets, and carried bouquets of pink carnations. Mr. Howard Wakelin, cousin of the bride, was best man, and Mr. Eric Bearpark acted as usher.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, 1022 Southgate Street, the rooms being arranged with bowls of pink and white sweet peas, snazdragons and greenery. Mrs. Wakelin, mother of the bride, received in a gown of rust silk, with black accessories, assisted by Mrs. F. Wakelin, wearing navy blue silk with white accessories. Both wore shoulder sprays of pink roses. The young couple stood before standard baskets of pink and white gladioli. The four-tier cake was arranged on a table covered with a Chinese lace and embroidered cloth, with vases of roses and sweet peas. Mr. J. Kemp proposed the toast to the bride, and Mr. Howard Wakelin that to the bridesmaids. Mrs. J. Lee, Salt Spring Island, was among the guests.

For the honeymoon in Vancouver the bride donned a beige suit with red accessories. On their return the young couple will make their home at 924 Collinson Street.

MOFFAT—PHELPS

In the presence of a large congregation in Christ Church Cathedral, Monday evening, Rev. S. H. Elliott, Dean of Columbia, solemnized the marriage of Roberta Yvonne, younger daughter of Captain and Mrs. A. R. Phelps, 3871 Saanich Road, and CPO. Robert John Moffat, R.C.N., only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Moffat, 1534 Eighth Avenue, New Westminster. Mr. A. M. Miller played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length frock of white sheer with bishop sleeves, her filmy veil of illusion net falling from a Mary Queen of Scots headdress. She carried a bouquet of red roses showered with Stephanotis and white heather. The little flower-girl, Lorena Glenn Brown, wore a Kate Greenaway frock of blue taffeta with a pink Dutch cap and mittens, and the bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Readings and Miss Edna Steer, were in frocks of pale pink sheer with blue halo head-dresses and shoulder veils. All carried colonial bouquets of pink roses, violets and sweet peas.

The bride's sister Mrs. D. A. Heaslip, in turquoise blue sheer and a small mauve Mary Stuart hat, with mauve accessories, and an arm bouquet of mauve sweet peas, was matron of honor. BSA Harry Burnett, R.C.N.V.R., was groomsmen, and acting as ushers were PO. Frank Doley, R.C.N.V.R., and Sgt. S. K. ("Bill") Bowd, R.A.F.

At the reception held in the O.E.S. Hall, Redfern Street, the bride and groom received beneath an arch of greenery, red, white and blue gladioli. Mrs. Phelps welcomed the guests in a gown of mauve lace with matching accessories and model moire hat, assisted by Mrs. Moffat, in turquoise blue sheer with navy accessories, both wearing corsages of roses and sweet peas.

The buffet supper was served from a table arranged with Ophelia roses and tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. As the bride cut the three-tier cake, Mr. Fred Bland, an old family friend, proposed the toast to her. Mrs. Sadie Dawe, accompanied by Mrs. A. Groves, sang "Because." Later, dancing was enjoyed.

CPO. and Mrs. Moffat will return to Victoria after the honeymoon, for which the bride left in a Kelly green and seal brown ensemble with a corsage bouquet of roses.

SAMPSON—SCHOLEFIELD
At St. Mark's Church, central Salt Spring Island, Saturday, at 12.30, Rev. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes united in marriage Marguerite Sheila, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Scholefield, Salt Spring Island, granddaughter of the late Rev. Clement Stuart Scholefield of St. Paul's Naval Church, Esquimalt, and Ernest Chester Sampson, R.C.N.V.R., fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sampson of North Salt Spring Island.

To Serve the Troops in B.C.

Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion War Services presented legion directors with a cheque for $2,150 recently for the purchase of these three sedan deliveries which will be used in servicing the troops in British Columbia.

Two of the vehicles will be used on the island, but they are not as yet equipped and Legion War Services are striving to have them fitted out with urns in order that they may be used as

British A.T.S. Girls Grateful to Canada

General C. B. Price, overseas commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, has forwarded a letter of thanks to national headquarters from the Duchess of Northumberland, who has sponsored a fund to provide comforts for the women of the Auxiliary Territorial Services, for the "magnificent help" of the many cases of comforts received from the Canadian Red Cross. The letter from the Duchess states:

"The cases have been invaluable as the tremendous increase in the A.T.S. has made it hard work to keep up with requirements. I do not know whether the supply of colored wool has run out in Canada yet, but if at any time you have any afghans to spare we should be very glad to have them, as they make a very welcome addition to the warmth of the girls in some exposed sites. They also help to satisfy the craving for color which is so strong among women in uniform."

British Columbia has contributed seven cases of woollen comforts to the A.T.S.

WAR PRISONERS' NEEDS

The prisoners of war department of the British Red Cross has appealed for more notebooks, foolscap paper, geometric instruments, drawing blocks and pencils to the Canadian Junior Red Cross Society, to be sent to British and Canadian prisoners of war in Germany. This appeal has been met with approval in B.C. and the supplies will be financed by the National Junior Red Cross war fund.

GO SIGN FOR GREENS

Red Cross sewers and knitters are requested to speed up the making of clothing for Greek refugees and hospital emergency dressings. Knitters are also requested to keep knitting steadily as the demand for knitted comforts for the men and women in the services is constant. More contents for 2,000 huskies are needed.

500,000th CARD

Mrs. H. P. Plumtree, in charge of the Red Cross Inquiry Bureau at Ottawa, exhibited the 500,000th acknowledgement card received from a prisoner of war in Germany—Gerard Roy from Quebec—at a recent meeting of the national Women's Institute board, at which she was a special speaker.

Rev. M. Allan Tells Of Legion War Work

Facts and figures, which reached the million mark, of work being done by the Canadian War Services for men of the armed forces at home and abroad, were given in detail by Rev. J. Maxwell Allan, a veteran of World War I, and director of Personal Services, Canadian Legion War Services, in an address to the Gyro Club, Monday noon.

"The Canadians in the armed forces today are made of just as good stuff as their dads were before them," he declared, as he made a plea to Gyro members to read and study all they could on the matter of postwar rehabilitation of servicemen.

Describing first the educational branch of the War Services work, Mr. Allan stated that at first many veterans of the last war, and private citizens, were skeptical of the program, but that the Canadian Legion War Correspondence School was the largest school of its kind in the British Empire. Army, navy and air force have an educational set-up in each division, and arrangements are made for men who wish to spend holidays at Oxford and Cambridge, he said.

There are study facilities even at base camps in north Africa, he told the audience, and added that 40,000 of Canada's armed forces have signified their desire for higher educational training. There are 22 languages taught at the Legion school in Vancouver.

"We have produced our own text books that have proved acceptable to each province in Canada. Our educational program has won the approval of bodies of education in Canada and overseas," Mr. Allan stated.

Turning to the Personal Services Department of the War Services, the speaker declared that 191,000 personal cases were handled by the Legion staff in Canada and overseas last year. "The cases cover all human emotion—they may be domestic problems, matters of debt or house. The service is valuable for the morale of the troops and also for the folks back home."

Attendance at Legion recreation huts has reached 20,735,437 since 1940; 117,267 beds have been occupied in Legion hostels; letter paper given out has amounted to 36,162,000 sheets, he said.

Declaring that the Legion was "very religious, but not dripping with piety," Mr. Allan stated that an attendance of 1,059,845 was marked up for religious services in huts operated by the Canadian Legion War Services. More than 40,000,000 cigarettes have been distributed, he said.

A new feature sponsored by the Legion is the welcome home committee, which they have set up at Halifax and Montreal, and hope to have established all across the country whereby men coming back sick, wounded or on leave will be given tea and cakes and cigarettes upon arriving at the different railway stations. There are now 600 of a staff at home and abroad with the Legion War Services, he said.

Attending the luncheon with Mr. Allan were F. J. Townsend, district supervisor of Legion War Services, and Harold Butterfield, area supervisor. Capt. Louis Glazan, president of the club, told members that the club hoped to have Lee Bing Shuey, first secretary at the Chinese Legation, Ottawa, as luncheon speaker, Aug. 16.

Ft. Lt. A. F. Avant, Houghton, Man., received the D.F.C. for bringing home a bomber with two of its four engines out of commission after refusing to allow the damage to forestall the bombing of Berlin.

The King presented the D.F.C. as well, to Ft. Lt. A. M. Branch, Vancouver, B.C., for conspicuous devotion to duty over a long series of operations.

FO. H. D. Link, Beechy, Sask., received the George Medal for rescuing two comrades from the flaming wreck of a crashed plane. Although severely burned when he was thrown clear, Link disregarded the danger of oil tanks and ammunition explosions in returning to the wreckage to save his mates.

Army personnel receiving the M.B.E. included W.P. Neil, Galt, Braith, Fort Frances, Ont.

Japs Abandon Sinking Freighter Carrying 2,000 Allied Prisoners

The story of the torpedoing last Oct. 1 of a Japanese merchant ship carrying 2,000 Allied prisoners of war, and the subsequent abandoning of the ship and passengers by the Japanese, was told here today by A. J. W. Evans, 1484 Beach Drive, one of the three prisoners on the ship who escaped and reached home.

Mr. Evans, a former factory manager for the British-American Tobacco Co. in Hongkong, still guards zealously, however, the mystery of what happened to the remainder of the prisoners, although it was announced in Chungking that half of 1,816 prisoners on the ship had been drowned.

Mr. Evans also guards the story of his escape across Japanese-occupied China to Chungking from where he made his way back to his home here.

"One did what one could," the 41-year-old executive said, speaking of those last days before the capitulation of Hongkong in Dec., 1941.

"I was driving a car for the Navy, so when I was captured on the 25th, I was interned with the military at Samshupo on the mainland instead of at Stanley Prison with the civilians.

RICE FOR 39 MEALS

"I expect conditions in those concentration camps has been pretty well described. The Japs weren't brutal—they simply didn't care. Once we had only rice for 39 consecutive meals. We had no beds. We slept in barracks that had been looted of everything, even the window frames.

"They gave us nothing, not even medical supplies. There was a lot of sickness—dysentery, malaria, that sort of thing. One diphtheria epidemic lasted three months. I had beri-beri and pellagra. The test for beri-beri is simple. You press your thumb into your leg, and if the muscles fail to return to shape, you have it."

Evans and some of the other prisoners were moved to Hongkong island and back to the mainland. Sept. 25, nine months after his capture, he and others were put aboard the Lisbon Maru, an 8,000-ton freighter, their destination unknown.

Two days later the ship sailed north. Cramped into a forward 'tween-decks hold were Evans and 362 British Navy men.

"It's hard to describe that hold," continued Evans in his precise, unhurried way. "It wasn't large. The Japs had built a wide platform all around the walls. It was one continuous bunk around the four bulkheads, about three feet from the floor. We slept on it and under it."

"We didn't lie lengthwise, we lay crosswise. Not one of us, but three of us, jammed head to head and feet to feet, with our legs doubled up. We were packed solidly that way, line after line of us."

BLACK, SUFFOCATING

Half of the open space which remained in the hold was clogged with the men's gear, Evans said. Despite the fact that the hatch cover was taken off in the daytime, the hold was so dark it was impossible to read. Beneath the platform it was blistering hot, black, suffocating.

Each day the prisoners were allowed on deck for three hours, guarded by 300 Japanese soldiers. The sick and there were many of them—were allowed to lie on deck between the hatches and in the scuppers.

"At 7 o'clock the morning of Oct. 1 we were torpedoed," said Evans. "An Allied sub, of course, but after all this was a Jap freighter, flying the Jap flag, with guns mounted fore and aft."

"We heard shouting and running about on deck. The Japs got off a few rounds with one of their guns. Then the torpedo hit us squarely amidship. The engines stopped, never to turn over again. The two feeble electric light bulbs in our hold went out.

"The sound wasn't frightening; it was a heavy muffled explosion, but a tremendous shudder ran through the ship, and it began to list slightly to port.

"We said things like, 'what the devil?' and stood there, conjecturing what had happened and what was going to happen."

Immediately, Evans went on, 40 of the sick, some 15 of whom had dysentery, were lowered into the hold. There was no place to lay them but on the bare boards of the tiny open space remaining.

No food was sent into the hold, and no water. No one was allowed on deck.

All day the ship drifted sluggishly, its list increasing. The chugging of an auxiliary vessel could be heard, and through the hatch the men could see what presumably was the tip of a tug's mast.

The effort to take the freighter in tow failed when the tow rope snapped. By that time it was nearly dark. The Japs began to cover the hatch. They simply cut loose the bulky canvas wind chute which had provided the hold's scanty ventilation. It fell on the sick.

I CAN MILK FOR SICK

On the top step of the ladder leading into the hold the Japs put a small bucket for sanitary use, and a single can of condensed milk for the sick. They finished placing the hatch cover, spread tarpaulins over it and dogged it down.

Inside now was utter blackness, the groaning of delirious men, stifling heat, and the fetid odor of more than 400 confined humans.

An officer called out, "Keep quiet. Don't talk. Save air." "Some men began calling for the padre," Evans said. "Others were telling them to shut up. The first man died at 10 o'clock that night."

Using Morse code, the Navy men tapped out that information on the bulkhead to an Army contingent in the next hold. The Army replied that their situation was the same, that it was understood the hatches were to be opened at noon the following day. The list of the ship grew more pronounced. Later during that night of horror a second man died.

"About 7.30 o'clock the next morning the tarpaulins, but not the hatch covers, were removed," Evans recalled. "We could see a few tiny cracks of light. They were rays of hope, nothing more."

Conditions had grown indescribably foul when, about 10.30 o'clock in the morning, the ship made a terrific lurch to port.

"It didn't matter what was on top," Evans said. "Our chaps had had all they could stand. They began to scramble for the ladder."

Evans didn't describe in detail the struggle which took place for a hold on that narrow ladder which terminated against the heavy planks of the hatch cover. He used the word "melee."

He said, "People went up as quickly as they could. It was every man for himself, of course."

CLAMBER UP LADDERS

Those who reached the ladder first, and got to the top, had to lift off the heavy planks. They poured out onto the deck of a deserted ship. The bow was canted skyward at a crazy angle; the stern was buried under the water. Only the fact that the stern had hit bottom kept the entire ship from sliding under the surface.

"The crew was gone, the 300 soldiers were gone, all taken off by some auxiliary vessels which were cruising between us and the shore. The rice in the crew's mess was still warm.

"Maybe they thought they could pick us up later. Maybe, too, they thought it would be simple to explain that a shipload of prisoners had been torpedoed and lost."

"Hundreds of men were in the water. It was like pictures you've seen of men going out to the boats at Dunkirk. I saw one lifeboat launched. We threw over rafts and any kind of debris."

"I kept thinking the auxiliary boats would come over to pick us up. They didn't and suddenly there was a booming rush of water as the bow of the ship went down."

Evans was washed clear, he said, and when it became apparent that he was not going to be picked up, he struck out for the distant shoreline, buoyed up by a life preserver he had found. Four hours later he reached the shore, and the journey to Chungking, which took nearly three months, began.

One of his prized possessions is a letter from the high commissioner for the United Kingdom. Informing him that he has been awarded the commendation of King George VI in recognition of his escape.

He will be glad to give what assistance he can to relatives seeking information about men imprisoned in Hongkong, Evans said.

Legion Canteens Are Not Run for Profit

Canteens operated in Canadian Legion War Services huts in Canada and overseas are not run for profit, Rev. J. Maxwell Allan, director of personal services with the Legion, told members of the Gyro Club in an address Monday noon at the Empress Hotel.

"We do not run the canteens for profit," he said emphatically in speaking of "War Services—Past, Present and Future." "Five per cent of the gross profits are given to the camp commanders for the purchase of extras for the men; 2 per cent is turned over to us for administration expenses and wages."

Any money left is turned over to a trust fund operated by the government, Mr. Allan stated.

Move to Keep Youths From Betting Wicket

In a move to keep youngsters with money in their pockets from vacation labor away from the betting queues when racing opens here, the City Council Monday decided to ask the racing association to refuse bets from minors under 18 and to ask the city solicitor for a report on action needed to prohibit young people from backing the horses.

Ald. Fred A. Willis, noting the city had gone on record against use of pinball games by juveniles, reminded the council a lot of young boys and girls had money now from seasonal work who had never possessed as much before. He asked a report from F. L. Shaw city solicitor on the legal action required to ban them from the betting booths, saying it was up to the city to protect the youngsters.

Mr. Shaw, speaking off hand, said he thought an amendment would be needed to the Criminal Code but promised a more detailed report.

Ald. Archie Willis moved and found support for a motion asking the racing association to decline bets from minors.

Council Debates Letter Writing

In another tie-up tangle which took up more time than any other single item of business on the agenda, the City Council

Monday cracked down on letter writing by committee members who have not the authority of their committees to write.

"You've aimed an arrow right at me," declared Ald. B. J. Gadsden, chairman of the industrial committee, as he fought the proposal which carried after alderman declared they would ignore it.

The finance committee brought in the recommendation which said no letters should be written by committee secretaries without authority from the committee or from the mayor.

"What prompted this?" asked Ald. Ed. Williams.

Overloading of secretaries, principally by the industrial committee, Mayor McGavin replied.

"When I was an alderman, I wrote all my own. And some of them were beautiful, too," he said. "You're piling up work on these fellows (secretaries) and they want more money," he added.

Ald. Gadsden said he had replied to letters sent to him as chairman of the industrial committee, but in many cases had paid his own postage.

"You've been burdening the secretary with a lot of nonsensical letters from which nothing comes," the mayor answered.

Ald. Ed. Williams objected to hamstringing committee chairmen by the ruling.

Ald. Archie Willis said he would have the fire wardens' secretary write letters whenever they were needed. Viewing the personal attitude Ald. Gadsden had taken, he suggested the issue be tabled a week and proof submitted.

Since March 1, two committees had sent out 81 letters, Ald. W. L. Morgan said.

The tabling motion was de-

Tax Penalty Cut Asked; No Change in Parking

Reconsideration of penalties charged on taxes outstanding after the due payment date in October is sought by the finance committee by the City Council, following discussion Monday.

A report from the committee and F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, outlined the history of the tax penalty set-up, disclosing Victoria's additions lower than those stipulated by the Municipal Act. The report was received and filed.

"Does that mean to say the whole question is washed out?" asked Ald. B. J. Gadsden.

"Yes," Mayor Andrew McGavin replied.

"I think it's a wicked and immoral thing to place that hardship on people's homes," Ald. Gadsden replied.

If the city wiped out its penalty legislation, said Ald. W. L. Morgan, finance committee chairman, the Municipal Act clauses would prevail and the burden would be heavier.

"Is the finance committee prepared to recommend a reduction in the penalty of 6 per cent?" Ald. Archie Willis asked.

Receiving no answer, he moved the explanation of the set-up be received and filed and the committee reconsider the interest charges. His motion carried.

The Royal Bank of Canada's request for a rebate on license fee paid for the discontinued Victoria West branch was declined.

Faced with an $7 to 4 petition against parallel parking on Douglas Street—following a survey of merchants affected—the council again turned down the proposal to eliminate angle parking and ordered copies of the report covering the question be sent to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council and other interested parties.

E. W. Ismay's appointment as City Council representative on the board of three to consider a salary schedule for City Hall employees has been made on the understanding there would be no remuneration for the task, Mayor McGavin said in reply to question by Ald. Ed. Williams.

Letters will be sent to the magazine "Liberty" protesting the caption which labeled Victoria A.R.P. pictures as scenes from Vancouver's civilian protection organization and to W. C. Mainwaring, chairman of the advisory council, Provincial A.R.P. group, asking why and how those pictures, forwarded through his office, bore the name of the wrong city.

Immediate submission of any additional postwar projects was asked by Ald. Gadsden for inclusion in the city's report which will be sent to the federal government.

Victoria's fuel problem has been badly handled, in the opinion of Mrs. A. B. Marshall, who criticized the arrangements made in a forthright letter to the council. She said she was no relative of Mr. Marshall of the self-help group, and outlined her experience in trying to secure fuel.

Special regulations for pedestrians, instructing them to keep to the right on the sidewalks, as well as new parking rules to beat the inch-an-hour parker, are sought by the police commission, together with consolidation of the present streets traffic by-law. The council approved the proposals.

The police commission also asked the council to inquire from the Local Council of Women which type of automatic vending machine is causing that organization concern.

Institution of safety zones sought by the police commission was tabled pending a report from the public works committee.

Lifting of the limit set on provincial motor license fee grants to municipalities is sought in a resolution forwarded through the council by the finance committee to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention next month at Port Alberni.

Approval of a $120 a month grant to the B.C. Agricultural Association from the rental of Willows building to federal authorities was given by the council.

Wage boosting continued at the meeting with increases granted to eight employees. W. P. Wright, assistant city clerk, was raised $10 a month; L. R. Cannon, $5; W. E. Farmer Sr., $5; Miss Esther Patterson, $15; E. B. Haldin, $5; S. Parkinson, $5; D. Horne, $5; G. Havard, $7.50. The latter four are employees at the Aged Men's Home.

Improvements to the Willows in preparation for the coming race meet were authorized on recommendation of the B.C. Agricultural Association on the understanding the racing association would meet all costs.

The provincial government's position in increasing returns to Old Age Pensioners was compli-mentally approved Friday. Committees have already filed lists of work suitable for rehabilitation activities.

Victoria can expect a refund on licenses for the fire department radio in view of new rulings which make duplicate licenses unnecessary where police and fire hook-ups are combined, according to a letter received by the council.

The water board was asked to attend to a letter from the provincial deputy minister of public works regarding closing of highways on Sooke and Goldstream watersheds.

The industrial and centenary committees were requested to deal with a letter from Saanich asking Victoria if it intended to proceed with the suggestion the Tolmie home, "Cloverdale," be reserved as a museum.

The council approved an advance of another $1,000 to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, with Mayor Andrew McGavin again voting against the grant.

"I've got to vote against this," he remarked in jest, "because it always gets me a lot of votes at the polls. That's not making any bones about it, is it?"

Suggestions from the Canadian Legion and from all other bodies over the form Victoria's memorial to the men in the forces should take will be welcomed, Ald. Archie Willis, chairman of the memorial committee, said. No set plan has been established, he explained, in answer to the Legion's suggestion a public meeting on the issue be called by the mayor.

Requests from the Y.M.C.A. for two sites for neighborhood club quarters were tabled pending inquiry by lands committee as to the exact nature of supervision planned. The mayor came out strongly for open air activity for boys.

A letter from the Civic Employees Protective Association advancing pleas of pipeline men for better working conditions, with more days off, was referred to the water board.

To give horse-drawn tally-ho parking space on Belleville Street a special by-law amendment will be drafted by the city solicitor and submitted to the council at two emergency meetings this week, one on Wednesday.

Mrs. Esther Harkness' claim for compensation for Rhode Island Reds and chicks destroyed by a dog was referred to the mayor and city solicitor for attention.

The provincial government's position in increasing returns to Old Age Pensioners was compli-

He also asked that efforts be continued at the U.B.C.M. convention to have reduced the age at which persons become eligible, and agreed to a proposal from Ald. W. H. Davies seeking to put the onus on pension authorities for any prosecutions required to make sons and daughters contribute to pensioners' incomes.

Tenders of the Northern Electric Co., Ltd. for $134 worth of copper wiring and from Francis Battery and Tire Service for 200 battery plates at $150, were accepted on the recommendation of the fire wardens.

At the request of the health committee, the council will forward to the U.B.C.M. convention a resolution asking power for health officers to use police where necessary to remove ailing persons from unsuitable places of residence to nursing homes or hospitals.

On the advice of the public works committee the council moved to inform the V.M.D. the city could assume no liability for damage to a Russian ship which sustained injury passing under Johnson Street bridge.

On the same committee's recommendation construction of a 654 foot $880 sidewalk on south of Richardson from Kipling to Arnold was authorized; one employee was placed under superannuation act benefits; one was granted sick leave, and purchase of 2,000 pounds of broom fibre for the street sweeper, at 42 cents a pound, was approved.

Fourteen properties were sold on the recommendation of the lands committee, which declined an application to have a former commercial building at 808 Catherine Street re-zoned for conversion into a two-family dwelling. Location of lots and the prices they claimed follow: Montreal, $1,400; corner of Vancouver and Bay, $250; Shelbourne, $75; Bay, $200; Victor, $100; Royal Terrace and Manor, $600; Edgeware, $50; Caledonia, $75; Princess and Quadra, $600; Asquit, $50; View and Vancouver, $1,000; Courtney, $600; the house at 1302 Hillside and Higgins, $650; and east Beechwood, $175.

In an automotive plant producing aircraft cannon, a method has been introduced which will do the job with eight machines instead of 64, save $228,800 in machine costs, cut the cost per gun by $12.65, and save 11½ production hours per gun.

HORSE racing fans who like a radio version of a race should tune in on station CJOR Friday afternoon at 5:30 and hear our friend Jack Short give all the details of the annual British Columbia Futurity being run at Hastings Park. Short, a Victoria boy, is in our estimation one of the best sport commentators in the business. We'll take him over all the so-called experts calling them over the United States networks. Short's calls keep you posted on a race from start to finish, and make it a cinch to follow the ponies from the time they leave the starting gate until they hit the wire.

The Futurity, richest stake event of the British Columbia season, will be broadcast in its entirety. Short will give a complete picture from the moment the blue-bloods are saddled in the paddock. The race at seven furlongs, featuring ranking two-year-olds, is considered wide-open this year with Dusty Polly, Goldstrowth, Divulge and So Black as the public choices. Somers Band rates as the dark horse of the field. Not more than eight are expected to face starter Clay Puett come post time.

When fat Freddy Fitzsimmons surprised himself and the baseball world by his elevation to the position of manager of the Philadelphia Phillies he was the sixth John McGraw man to become a pilot-in-National League baseball. This is at least partially answers the old question: Who was the greatest baseball manager? McGraw raised Pirates and Mel Ott of the New York Giants, Billy Southworth of the St. Louis Cardinals played on McGraw's team of 1925 with Frisch and Fitzsimmons. McGraw had Casey Stengel of the Boston Braves on two championship clubs, while Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds listened to McGraw's sage advice. Others who played under McGraw became National League managers. The names of Bill Terry, Art Fletcher, Christy Mathewson, Buck Herzog and Dave Bancroft come to mind offhand. McGraw men coaching and managing in the minor leagues are too numerous to mention.

McGraw turned out managers because he insisted that his players think. He reminded them of little things, reasoned things out with them. He would forgive a mechanical error, but would not condone a mental mistake. Lectures were as much a part of the daily work as infield and hitting practice and the game itself. He never let up on the hired hands, ruled with an iron fist. He was in supreme command. There was no interference.

Not until he melted in his later years did he lose his enthusiasm, dash and fire.

Casey Stengel tells a story of McGraw's alertness which is proof that he frequently got away from the book.

The Pirates came into the Polo Grounds in late August, 1921, seven-and-a-half games in front. Babe Adams had the Giants beaten 1 to 0. The bases were full and the count on George Kelly was three and nothing. In that situation, Little Napoleon gave Kelly the hit sign. He was to hit the next pitch.

Kelly hit the ball over the L. tracks outside left field. The Giants took five in a row and were off on a four-year-straight pennant spurge. It was following that series that Barney Dreyfuss walked into the Pirates' dressing room and hissed: "Quitters!"

Stengel considered McGraw's giving Kelly the hit sign in that set-up poor baseball, asked the boss about it.

McGraw explained that Adams was a control pitcher and that the first pitch was the only good one Kelly was likely to get. It was sure to be fast and straight down the middle, for Adams figured Kelly would take it. McGraw figured Adams would get a piece of the plate with a curve on the second pitch and that Kelly would draw another curve sure on the third one and perhaps strike out with his bat on his shoulder.

Kelly led the league in strikeouts, so McGraw took no chances. He told Long George precisely what to do.

Butterfield Wins

Shooting the sporty Oak Bay course in 73, four over par, G. L. Butterfield, Seattle, captured medalist honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the 21st annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament Monday.

The Washington veteran was out in 33, perfect figures, but coming back took 40 strokes, four over par. His score was one of the lowest in the history of the tournament and gave him the medal by a margin of two strokes over Harold F. Hepburn, playing over his home course. Third position went to Walter Harry Hodges, Victoria, and W. H. Abbott, Bellingham, shared fourth place with 78.

One of the surprises was the failure of E. H. Hughes, Spokane, defending champion, to qualify. He shot a 91. Scores of 83 or better were necessary to make the grand championship.

Several other former titleholders made the championship flight including Premier John Hart, with 82; Jack Ballinger, Seattle, with 81, and Dr. J. P. Loudon, Yakima, with 79.

Lee Savold Puts Giant Nova Down In Second Round

CHICAGO (AP)—Lee Savold of Paterson, N.J., drove a savage right to the heart to knock out towering Lou Nova in the second round of their scheduled 10-rounder Monday night.

The spectacular battle was fought in Wrigley Field before 12,653 customers, with receipts at $45,950.

Savold, the blond Norwegian, in knocking out the one-time yogi man of the ring, scored his fourth consecutive knockout, all of them in Chicago.

After a cautious first round, Lee opened up in the second and whipped a wicked left hook high on Nova's jaw. An instant later, Savold drove a pile-driving right under Nova's heart. He slowly dropped to the canvas and curled up. The end came one minute and 40 seconds after the round opened.

Nova held a 9½-pound edge over his opponent. Savold weighed 192.

It was Savold's second triumph over the Van Nuys, Calif., giant. In their previous engagement Savold scored a technical knockout when Nova failed to answer the gong for the eighth round because of deep cuts in his forehead and left eye.

Lawn Bowling

In the final of the Barnard Cup competition at the Victoria West Club, F. Davey's rink from the Canadian Pacific Club defeated W. Peden's rink. Peden was last year's victor.

W. Cross skipped his rink to victory in the consolation game, finishing with the highest score. C. Fairall presented the cup and other prizes at the conclusion of play.

Happy Group of Lawn Bowlers

With one of the largest entry lists in the history of the competition, play opened Monday in the annual tournament of the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association. All rinks in Greater Victoria are being utilized as players from all parts of the Pacific Northwest compete for the honors. Seen in the above picture, taken at Beacon Hill, from left to right: F. H. Bellis and D. Witherspoon, of Vancouver; C. S. Reynolds and L. G. Fiedler, of Tacoma; C. A. Marshall and Bill Blane, of Vancouver, and Clyde Martin and K. B. Kellogg of Tacoma.

Play in Seniors' Golf

Having completed their rounds in the qualifying test these three veterans sit down for a chat at the first tee at Oak Bay as play opened Monday in the 21st annual tournament of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association. The competition has attracted over 150 entries from all parts of the Pacific Northwest. From left to right: C. A. Thomson, Victoria; J. P. Hausman and R. D. McGillivray of Seattle.

Alsab Charges But Runs Third Behind Cherrydale

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—Mrs. Albert Sabath's game little Alsab put on his usual rush through the stretch Monday, but it wasn't quite enough to capture the $5,000 added Pawtucket Handicap at Narragansett Park.

Returning to the races after a long layoff, the two-year-old champion of 1941 finished a close third in the stake which opened Narragansett's 42-day summer meeting before a throng of 8,000. J. B. Hatfield's Cherrydale won the race and held a 2½-length edge over Pine Tree Farm's Valdina Alpha. The winning time was 1:11-3/5.

Alsab, which finished a neck behind Valdina Alpha, was slightly favored in the wagering.

He trailed the field through the backstretch of the six-furlong sprint, but George Woolf of Taber, Alta., sent him charging down the middle of the track as the field came to the head of the stretch. He was gaining at every stride as the field roared to the wire and just missed overhauling Valdina Alpha at the finish.

Cherrydale earned $4,250 by his victory and paid $10.80, $6.60 and $5.00. Valdina Alpha returned $9 and $6.40 and Alsab $4.60 to show.

The Sabath colt earned $500 for his efforts.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers Monday signed Eugene Hermansky, a 22-year-old outfielder who recently was released from the United States coast-guard in order to enlist in the aviation training program of the navy. He does not expect to have to report for another month, and in the interim will play for the Dodgers. He was a star for the Dodgers' farm at Olean in the Pony League in 1941, batting .341.

Before the coming of the white man, North America had towns of more than a 1,000,000 inhabitants, but they were populated by prairie dogs.

Bowling Tourney Opens

Local Players Star

With play in men's and women's rinks and singles the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association got away to a fine start Monday. With a large entry from all parts of the northwest some sterling play is expected before the new champions are crowned Saturday.

In the rinks the local players showed to advantage. G. A. Marconini made a clean sweep of his four matches in section one closely followed by Don Leith, New Westminster, with one drawn game. In section two J. Davies, Canadian Pacific, scored another clean sweep, while E. Myers, Burnside, pulled the same feat to top section three. In section four R. A. C. Dewar, Victoria; S. Keenlyside and D. Moore, North Vancouver, and J. Imrie, Nanaimo, are all tied, each with six points.

The women's rinks saw Mrs. James, Canadian Pacific, Van-

Flyers Meet Navy For Softball Title

R.C.A.F. Flyers from Pat Bay and Navy, bitter softball rivals all season, will be at it again tonight at the Athletic Park, when they clash in a sudden-death game to determine the championship of the senior A men's league. Starting time is 6:45.

Flyers and Navy finished the regular schedule in a tie for top place. Harry Braverman and Syd Stebbings, who have hooked up in a number of thrilling pitching duels this season, are certain starting hurlers tonight.

K.V.'s capped the championship of the men's C section Monday night by blanking Gordon Heat O.T.C., 14 to 0, in the third and deciding game of their playoff. With Tommy Johnstone hurling four-hit ball, K.V.'s teed off on four O.T.C. hurlers for their decisive win. Anderson, Simpson and Burden of K.V.'s smacked home runs.

V.M.D. Capture Ball Thriller

Beat Army With Rally In Ninth

Putting over a two-run rally in the last of the ninth with one away, Victoria Machinery Depot nosed out the Army 5 to 4 Monday night in a thrill-packed ball game to cinch second place in the league. Shipbuilders and Army finished the schedule tied for runnerup, back of the first-place Navy, and a sudden-death affair was necessary to decide the positions of the teams in the playoffs.

V.M.D. go back into action on Wednesday evening in a best-of-five playoff with the R.C.A.F. who finished in fourth place. The Army open a best-of-five series with the Navy Friday night. Winners meet in the final, which will be the best-of-seven games.

Coach Laurel Harney's V.M.D. crew really pulled the game out of the fire. Down 4 to 3 their last at bat, it looked like curtains when pitcher Jack Coghlan struck out swinging. Harney punched the ball over third base for a single. Barney Barnswell, who went into the game in the eighth as a pinch-hitter, drove out his second hit, a single, into centre field. Ian Lowe followed with another hit to left centre, scoring Harney with the tying run and sending Barnswell to second. Big Reg Patterson, who had gone hitless previously, lined the ball through shortstop and Barnswell raced home with the winning run.

LOTS OF ACTION

It was a grand climax to a game that gave the fans everything. Army turned in a grand fielding exhibition, with shortstop Nick Metz and second baseman French Gerard executing three double plays to cut short V.M.D. rallies. Brilliant catches were pulled off in the outfield by Chuck Restall of the V.M.D. and Cousins, right fielder of the Army, while catcher Harney climbed the wire on the press box to gather in Carlow's foul tip. The peppy little backstop got a great hand from the crowd for the daring play.

Both clubs used a pair of pitchers. Cy Shillito started for the V.M.D. but left the game after six innings, having given up eight hits and four runs. Coghlan pitched shutout ball for three frames and got credit for the victory. Lefty Medansky opened on the mound for the Army but was chased to the showers in the eighth, being charged with 10 hits and three runs in seven and two-thirds innings. Jerry Whitney, his replacement, gave up five and two runs and was charged with the defeat.

Ian Lowe, slugging V.M.D. shortstop, was the big man with the stick in the V.M.D. victory. After driving in the first run for his club, in the sixth, he punched out a two-run homer in the eighth and wound up a good night's work with another single in the ninth to send in the tying counter. Out of the five runs the shipyarders scored he drove in four of them.

After a pair of scoreless innings, the Army moved into a 1 to 0 lead in the third when Medansky doubled and scored when Restall dropped Carlow's lazy fly ball for what would have been the third out. Another error gave the troops their second run in the fourth. Metz

ARMY WINS BOXLA

VANCOUVER (CP)—Army outscored Burrards 19 to 16 to go into a second-place tie with Burrards in the Intercity Boxla League. New Westminster leads the circuit.

LEAD 3 TO 0

Top half of the sixth saw the Army make it 3 to 0. Cousins got a life on a fielder's choice with two away. Sawchuk singled through second, sending Cousins to third and he scored on Gerard's double against the centre field fence. Restall made a great running catch of Medansky's hard-hit ball to retire the side. V.M.D. hit the score column for the first time in the last half of the inning. Harney picked them up fast to beat out a hit to shortstop. Restall bunted and all hands were safe when Medansky threw wild to first. Lowe singled through shortstop, scoring Harney. Army pulled one of their double plays to get two men out and Work popped to Gerard to end the rally.

Army got their fourth and final run in the seventh on Elmer Krelier's long triple to deep right field and Metz's double to right centre.

In an effort to get some batting punch into the club, Coach Harney sent in Barnswell to bat for Restall to start the eighth and he promptly singled to centre. Lowe stroled to the plate and smacked the ball over the fence for the circuit and set the stage for the thrilling wind-up in the ninth.

Army hit the ball hard, getting six hits for extra bases, including two triples and four doubles.

Footprints Help Tell Height Of An Elephant

Some idea of how tough an elephant can be is gained from the following case:

In 1928 a big African elephant "went bad" at the zoo of Liverpool, England, and killed two men who had been his keepers.

To shoot the beast if he got out of the elephant house, the director of the zoo caused two six-pounder cannons to be set up outside the elephant house. These cannons were not used, but they gave visitors to the zoo a sight to see.

Enough poison was given the elephant "to kill 50 men." The elephant ate the food with the poison in it, but showed no sign of dying. So 30 soldiers were called in. Fifteen of the soldiers aimed their muskets and fired, but the animal stood his ground. He did not fall dead until the other 15 soldiers sent another volley into his body.

That event took place before the time of modern high-power rifles and "elephant guns." Present-day weapons will do more damage; if one of them is well aimed, it may bring an elephant down in a hurry.

In past times it was a common belief that elephants had no joints in their legs. Most persons who heard about elephants had not seen them in real life. In walking an elephant bends his legs somewhat, but not a great deal.

Now it is well known that there are joints in the legs of elephants. Millions of persons have seen the animals at circuses and zoos. Often, at a circus, we may see them perform tricks in which their big, heavy legs are bent in one way or another.

One of the front feet of an African elephant is likely to measure 18 or 20 inches across. If we pass a tape measure around the edge of the foot, we are likely to find that the distance around the foot is from 56 to 65 inches.

Twice the distance around a front foot is about the same as an elephant's height. Footprints left by an elephant in soft ground may make it possible for a hunter to tell the animal's height without seeing him.

The rule works better in India than in Africa. The height of an African elephant is almost always a little more than twice the circumference of its foot.

Another old belief was that elephants would never lie down to rest. The truth is that elephants often rest on their feet, perhaps leaning against a tree, but they also lie down. They have been watched while sleeping with an anthill as a pillow, and at such times have been heard snoring!

Pension Changes Sought By U.B.C.M.

Major changes in existing superannuation regulations covering municipal employees will be sought at the Union of B.C. Municipalities Convention at Port Alberni next month, Mayor Andrew McGavin indicated today following a session of the U.B.C.M. executive in Vancouver at the week-end.

On one point the executive was unanimous, he said. That point covered the alleged mandatory nature of a clause which brings temporary employees under the Superannuation Act after 12 months' service. Municipal leaders are of opinion the clause is not mandatory, the mayor said.

The executive also discussed tax assessment questions, seeking to establish a maximum of $75 for costs in appeals on taxation questions. The membership also urged maintenance of the ruling which prevents appeal if assessments are cut to a point under 90 per cent of the figure for the preceding year and seeks the right of entry by an assessor into premises which he is evaluating.

Preprimary School Applicants Studied

Applications for enrolment in the proposed city preprimary school, institution planned for the care of four and five-year-old children of mothers who work away from home, will be studied by the city school board Wednesday evening to determine if the demand is sufficient to warrant the establishment of the class in the Spring Ridge school building.

To date, officials at the school board reported, 31 applications have been received. They will be examined by the trustees Wednesday evening to determine their bona fides. Following that examination, definite announcement is expected.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"My brother John ought to have this medal, Judge—I had all the fun fighting Japs, but he had to stay home and work the crops!"

Dorothy Dix:

Dear Miss Dix: I am 18 years old. Have been married three years and have one child. I am tired of my husband and sick of matrimony and am thinking of going away with a young man who says he loves me and will take care of me.

A SAD GIRL.

Answer: If you are disillusioned with matrimony, you are taking a strange cure for your trouble by running off with another man. What advantage do you think a common-law wife has over a legal wife? What charm will there be in an illicit relationship that a respectable relationship lacked?

The thing that rubs the salt in the gingerbread of matrimony is the daily companionship of a man and woman. Romance can't survive a woman's seeing a man in his stocking feet, with a two-day stubble of beard on his face and a soiled collar.

Illusion perishes when she finds out that he has funny, fussy little ways, and that he swears a blue streak when his collar button rolls under the chifonier, and is irritable when dinner is three minutes late, and that he is unreasonable about bills and hard to get along with, and thinks he is about to die every time he has a headache, and, in general, is just a plain, ordinary, faulty human being. Instead of being a demigod, as she supposed he was.

But believe me, my poor foolish child, you would find just exactly the same things to contend with in a lover, if you had to live with him every day, as you find in a husband. Only more so, because, in addition, you would always be afraid that your lover was about to leave you, and he would visit upon you all the irritations arising out of a situation that is not countenanced by decent society. Every time people looked askance at him and snubbed him, you would have to pay.

And what about your child? Are you going to abandon it? Do you think you will find much happiness when you lie awake at night wondering if your baby is crying for its mother? And do you think you have any right to bring up a child in the atmosphere in which you are proposing to live? Do you think any child would respect a mother living the kind of life you are thinking of living?

Answer these questions honestly to yourself and you will stick to your job.

Fire Chiefs Coming Here Sept. 20-23

Dates of the four-day convention of the B.C. Fire Chiefs' Association, which will be held in Oak Bay, has been set for Sept. 20 to 23.

Heads of fire departments from all parts of B.C., as well as representatives of the fire departments of the three armed services, are expected to attend.

Plans are being made to demonstrate the latest type of fire apparatus, including fog nozzles. Classes are also being planned for auxiliary fire fighters.

Gets Commission

P.O. Ray W. Brewster, of Victoria, who at the end of the Tunisian campaign, was awarded his commission. He was forced down on two different occasions in the Battle of Britain and once in Syria. He has fought in France, Belgium, Holland and Dunkerque, also in Syria, north Africa and India. P.O. Brewster passed through George Jay and Victoria High Schools and before going to Britain to join the R.A.F. in 1938 was employed by Dave W. Burnett, building contractor.

Plan Ceremony To Honor Douglas

Victoria will pay tribute next Sunday afternoon at 3 to the work and achievements of Sir James Douglas, founder of B.C.'s capital city.

Aug. 15 is the 140th anniversary of the birth of the great governor, arrived here in 1842 to start Fort Victoria for the Hudson's Bay Company.

The ceremony will be held in connection with the centenary celebration of the city, around the Douglas grave in Ross Bay Cemetery. Arrangements are being made by the Victoria section of the B.C. Historical Association. Chairman will be Hon. Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, chairman of the local section and native of Victoria. Other organizations have been invited to participate and to lay floral tributes of appreciation and respect. Many descendants of Sir James and Lady Douglas will be in attendance.

A brief address on the life and accomplishments of Sir James will be given by B. A. McKelvie, president of the association, and Rev. T. H. Laundry, son-in-law of Bishop Cridge, pastor of Reformed Episcopal Church, from which Sir James was buried in 1877, will pronounce the invocation.

Tax Collections Here Up $17,499

Current city tax collections today stood $17,499 above those for the corresponding period in 1942, establishing new records for prepayment with $856,202 already received.

The amount was well over half the 1943 levy, with the due date nearly two months distant.

Last year at Aug. 9, collections amounted to $838,703. In the arrears department, $71,018 had been received. That figure was $18,847 below last year's cumulative total of $89,865, but was encouraging in view of the fact far less was outstanding at the beginning of this year than last.

The first penalty for non-payment goes into force Oct. 2, when 1 per cent is added. Another 1 per cent goes on Nov. 2, and a third of the same amount Nov. 16. The final penalty, an addition of 3 per cent, is imposed on taxes not paid by Dec. 2.

Local Flier Missing

Sgt. Pilot Harry Edward Mayer of Victoria is officially reported missing on air operations.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mayer, now reside at Sidney, Mrs. B. J. Beckerle, 2180 Pentland Road, is an aunt.

A brother, LAC H. G. L. Mayer, who after Dunkerque was attached to a transfer unit in England and transferred to the R.C.A.F. in September, 1942, is at present stationed at High River, Alta.

Ambulance Brigade

All members of St. John Ambulance Brigade are asked to note that the weekly practice and drill will be resumed Thursday evening, at the public market building, at 7.35. Any male first aider holding initial certificate or better, and who is desirous of becoming a member of this division, with a view to increasing his ability as a first aider will be welcomed. Meetings are held every Thursday evening from 7.55 to 10.

A.R.P. Activities

Esquimalt—A meeting of district and post wardens will be held at 8 Wednesday at the Municipal Hall.

Medalist Beaten in First Round of Seniors' Golf

Defeat of G. L. Butterfield, Seattle, Monday's medalist, 1 up, by R. Mattison, Tacoma, was the highlight of the first round of match play today in the grand championship of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament at Oak Bay.

Premier John Hart, two-time champion in 1935 and 1936, won a gruelling match from W. H. Abbott, Bellingham, at the 20th hole.

Jack Ballinger, Seattle, last year's medalist and winner of the title in 1939, advanced to the second round by defeating W. G. Fovargue, Aberdeen, 1 up.

Dr. J. P. Loudon, Yakima, another double champion in 1940-41, had an easy time eliminating T. O. Mackay, 7 and 5.

Other results: D. R. Munro, Portland, beat George Norgan,

Vancouver, 1 up; R. E. Campbell, Seattle, beat H. F. Hepburn, Victoria, 3 and 2; F. Thomas, Victoria, beat J. Ruggles, Victoria, 3 and 2; J. McKinley, Spokane, beat Harry Hodges, Victoria, 5 and 4.

First round results in the class D championship follow:

Cassius Gates, Seattle, beat H. C. Temple, Yakima, 6 and 4; E. D. Todd, Victoria, beat F. R. Graham, Vancouver, at 21st; R. J. Martin, Spokane, beat C. M. Vick, Vancouver, 1 up; H. W. Roberts, Portland, beat L. V. Day, Seattle, 2 and 1; J. W. Thomson, Vancouver, beat J. W. Granier, Bellingham, 3 and 2; G. T. Pearce, Tacoma, beat Howard Lilly, Seattle, 6 and 5; J. F. Belyea, Vancouver, beat D. A. Macdonald, Victoria, 6 and 5; A. B. Linne, Seattle, beat R. D. White, Seattle, 6 and 5.

Killed in Air Crash

Sgt. George Newman, R.C.A.F., Victoria, radio operator, who was killed with two others Aug. 6 when an R.A.F. transport command plane crashed near Cornwall, Ont. Newman, who was educated at Mount View and Esquimalt High Schools, had been in the air service for more than a year.

TOWN TOPICS

Oaklands P.T.A. sewing group will meet at the Willows Beach Thursday.

The Jill Tars will hold a noon picnic for members and their families Wednesday at the Willows Beach, not Foul Bay as previously planned.

Mrs. E. Ridgeway, 2238 Windsor, told city police today her car parked on Johnson Street had been broken into by a person who took her handbag containing $19 in cash and a gasoline ration book.

Saanich firemen today brought under control a new fire at Prospect Lake which broke out Monday evening near McGregor's farm. Firemen said the blaze had already swept over about four acres of bush land.

Lieut. Frank C. Hall of the Seaforth Highlanders, wounded in Sicily last month, suffered a bullet through the flesh of his thigh, his father, Magistrate H. C. Hall, 1381 Craigdarroch, said today. First reports did not give the extent of Lieut. Hall's injuries.

W.A. to the Air Services realized $457.41 at their tag day held Saturday, the money to be devoted to prisoners of war parcels and cigarettes. Mrs. Lorne W. Campbell was convener, assisted by Mesdames S. S. Pearce, N. Beketov, E. W. White and W. G. Hudson.

A permit for a $1,500 conversion project which will change Lee Due's dwelling at 1246 Balmoral into a two-family unit, was issued by the city building inspector's department today. Monday, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smeade received a permit to continue $2,500 construction on a $3,000 single family home at 105 Gorge Road. Earlier a $500 permit had been granted covering preliminary work. Also issued Monday was a permit for $500 alterations to 824 Fort which the Plovman estate is changing from a store into offices.

4 Alberta Miners Entombed in Pit

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Twenty hours after an explosion and cave-in trapped four colliery workers in the Keralla coal mine on the west bank of the Old Man River near here Monday afternoon, rescue workers, toiling in squads of five under extremely cramped and hazardous conditions, had failed to reach the men. The trapped men are: Sam Crabb, overman; William King, mine electrician; John Zubrey, miner.

Glycerin is used as a carrying agent for medicines because it has excellent solvent properties and does not ferment.

Expects Tourists In Great Numbers When War Ends

GEORGE STEPHEN ... looking ahead.

Once the war is ended tourist travel will come back in greater volume than ever, in the opinion of George Stephen, Canadian Pacific vice-president in charge of traffic in Victoria today from Montreal.

"While tourist traffic is at a low ebb today, the termination of the war should witness an extraordinary movement of travel to the Pacific Coast," said Mr. Stephen at the Empress Hotel.

Canadian Pacific Railway, now handling its greatest business in all time, due to the war, is viewing with a far-seeing eye the postwar developments, and is not overlooking future tourist business.

PREPARED FOR CHANGE

Looking ahead, Mr. Stephen spoke of the greatly increased volume of business being handled by the company and expressed the conviction that it could not last with the slackening of the war's demands.

"The great volume of business we are handling today," he said, "is of a temporary character by reason of it being created by wartime conditions. The time will come when we shall have to change over on the other foot."

"The railways of Canada and the United States," he said, "have done a marvelous job in the transportation of persons and freight since the beginning of the war. They were well prepared for the emergency when war came and they have been hitting a terrific stride ever since."

Mr. Stephen is making a periodical inspection of western Canada, and he is amazed at the industrial development since he was out here a year and half ago. Passenger traffic, he said, was particularly heavy, taxing the equipment available.

ALL EQUIPMENT USED

"It is impossible under wartime conditions to obtain any new passenger cars, and every serviceable car is being utilized throughout Canada."

There would be no major developments on the company's system during the war, he said, in answer to questioning.

"I came out here to learn of conditions at first hand," he said. Accompanying the vice-president here was Bruce Burpee, general passenger agent, Vancouver. They arrived Monday afternoon from Nanaimo, motoring down over the Malahat.

Mr. Stephen expects to be in the city for the major part of the week.

25 Men Sought For Weather Jobs

Men for work with the meteorological service, Department of Transport, which the government "looks on as almost equal to service in the armed forces," are being sought by the Victoria office of National Selective Service, C. A. Mudge, manager of the local office, stated today.

"The work, which entails the keeping of weather records and making forecasts, is important, and 25 men across Canada are needed," he said. "We are experiencing difficulty in getting the men. They would work at outlying stations, but the wages are good."

Men between the ages of 18 and 35 with high school education, who are in medical category B2 or perhaps discharged from the armed forces, would be considered, Mr. Mudge declared. No training or experience is required, he said, and the government will supply winter clothing to applicants accepted. Anyone wishing to apply may do so at 534 Broughton Street.

A yellow taxi cab, reported by Gloria Mutter to have been stolen from Yates Street Monday night, was recovered at Goldstream.

We all sympathize with China but now let's do something about it, through the China National Relief Fund, 706 Fort Street.

Sailor Suffers Cuts In Fight With Soldier

City police records today carried the story of a violent struggle between a soldier and a sailor at a Hillside Avenue rooming house. The fight, the bulletin said, resulted when the sailor called at the home of the gunner to visit the gunner's wife.

According to the record, the sailor was not forewarned of what was going to happen. On entering the room and turning on the light he found the husband of the woman he came to see and the fight was on.

Police Constables Sam McKenzie and R. J. Morris said the soldier was thrown to the floor and grabbed a knife to defend himself. The sailor suffered two deep cuts, one on the right jaw, the second a stab on the left side of the back.

The sailor was brought to the police station and turned over to the naval shore patrol. He said he did not wish to charge the soldier.

Fourth Man Charged With Shop-Breaking

Frank Schlosser was charged jointly with James O. Crozier, Arthur F. Walton and James Scouler today with breaking and entering Victoria Pharmacy, 1001 Government Street, early last Sunday morning.

The four-elected preliminary hearing. Bail for Schlosser was fixed at $3,000.

Schlosser was represented by W. A. Brethour, while Stuart Henderson appeared for the three other accused.

The vagrancy charge against Schlosser was withdrawn.

The police court hearings were set for next Tuesday.

Crozier, who also faces a charge of possessing morphine, elected preliminary hearing today on the second charge. The case will proceed next Tuesday.

Insurance Stamps

Stamps are to be recorded in a worker's unemployment insurance book for the number of days worked, regardless of whether Sunday is a working day or not, a statement issued by Louis J. Trotter, chairman of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, to C. A. Mudge, manager of the Victoria office of Selective Service, decreed recently.

In all cases the maximum for a week is six daily stamps recorded, or one weekly stamp. If an employee works five days when the working week is considered six days, one daily stamp is required for each day worked, but Sunday continues to be treated as any other day.

PRIZEWINNERS

At the Caledonia Games in Vancouver Saturday, Elizabeth Cameron of Victoria took second in the sword dance, while Catherine Bray of this city was second in the amateur piping.

Mrs. M. Appenwall was fined $50 in city police court today on a charge of having three liquor permits. She pleaded guilty through her counsel, P. J. Sinnott.

1,500 Throng Park For Eagles' Picnic

Sunshine and summer breezes played over Curlew Park Sunday for the 44th annual basket picnic of the Victoria Aerle. No. 12, F.O.E., when more than 1,500 men, women and children thronged the grounds to take part in a program of sports and entertainment.

Old-timers were quick to pronounce the picnic the "biggest and most successful in the history of the Victoria Aerle."

There were sport competitions for young and old and an entertainment program for non-competitors, the day's events winding up with a softball game in the evening. W. Bridgewood, aerle president, spoke briefly before the close of the day, complimenting members of the picnic board on their success.

W. Cox, chairman of the social committee, was general convener and members of the picnic board included J. Wright, W. Griffin, B. Duncan, C. Holt, W. Harrison, J. Rose and W. Johnson. Starter for all sports' events was D. Essler.

Chinatown Clean-up

Supplementing last week's board of health tour of Chinatown, Ald. P. E. George, health committee chairman, was supported in a motion asking recommendations from city officials on means of dealing with persons causing unauthorized structural alterations in premises and seeking advice on means of improving conditions there generally.

That advice will be sought, according to the motion, from the acting city medical health officer, sanitary inspector, building inspector, wiring inspector, plumbing inspector and chief of the fire department.

In addition to checking on unauthorized work, the officials will be asked to propose means by which the city may lessen the fire hazard, clean up the area and improve conditions from the health standpoint and in other respects.

A roof fire at the Aberdeen Hotel, 941 McClure, did slight damage Monday before it was extinguished by city firemen.

Fans Storm Ring As Murray Scores Victory Over Bobo

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lee Murray of South Norwalk, Conn., won the Maryland version of the duration heavyweight championship Monday, scoring a technical knockout over Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh, now a private in the United States Army, in two minutes and 10 seconds of the eighth round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

The end came with pandemonium reigning around the ringside as Bobo adherents climbed through the ropes and shouted from all sides that Murray had struck the Pittsburgh fighter as he got off the floor after the Connecticut Negro had scored a clean knockout.

The fighters were milling heavily in the eighth, with Murray having much the better of the going, although Bobo was ahead on points.

Murray came out with a rush and banged home a left to the chin, throwing Bobo off his balance. Murray drove Harry to the ropes and battered the Pittsburgh Negro with rights and lefts. They moved to the centre and Murray cut loose with a knockdown punch and Bobo fell sprawling.

Murray did not check clearly into a neutral corner. Bobo got up to his knees and, as he did, Murray dived in to land a right that sent Bobo down heavily. Bobo's seconds piled into the ring, as did others, with some from Murray's corner.

Bobo was led to his corner. Apparently angered, he dashed through the crowd to get at the fresher Murray, even though the ring was crowded. The referee waved the crowd out and allowed the fight to go on.

Less than a minute later Murray had pounded Bobo into helplessness in the Connecticut Negro's corner and Referee Baum stopped the fight, raising Murray's hand.

Wins HBC Governor's Award

MR. W. CARTER

MISS E. ROSE

At a mass meeting of the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company, A. J. Watson, store manager, presented the governor's (P. Ashley Cooper) award to the two outstanding salespeople of the past year. Miss Evelyn Rose, Service Food Department, was presented with the Governor's Shield, to be retained for one year, and will also receive a replica as a permanent trophy. Mr. W. Carter, Men's Clothing Department, received second honors.

The two winners left over the week-end for an all-expense-paid trip to Winnipeg, where they will be entertained together with winners from other stores of the company.

The Governor's Award is made each year to the members of the staff who have maintained the highest standard of salesmanship and customer service throughout the year.

Miss Rose has been a member of the staff for the past five years, and Mr. Carter joined the company in 1929.

Ballet Theatre, With Substitutes, Performs Well

Ballet Theatre, presenting four of the outstanding ballets on their repertoire at the Royal Victoria Monday night, introduced the burlesque "Gala Performance," full of humor and, swiftly drawn character delineation, as spice to the sweetness of two of the more classical dances, "Les Sylphides" and "Pas de Quatre."

Disappointing as it was to find absent so many of the artists billed, including Leonide Massine, Alicia Markova, Lynn Laing and Lazovsky, the S. Hurok Company nevertheless gave a performance of beauty and grace combined with excellent dancing technique, colorful costuming and original choreography that delighted the Victoria audience.

Robert Lindgren, a native son who was to have appeared in two of the ballets, was unfortunately detained in Seattle, but is expected to join the company for the Vancouver performances.

LES SYLPHIDES

Music of Frederic Chopin created the spirit that breathed life into the dainty white Dresden-like figurines appearing in the opening ballet. A truly classical atmosphere permeated the stage as Anton Dolin, who supervised the Michel Fokine dances, moved with smoothly flowing grace and un-jarring agility among the white froth of loveliness that was "Les Sylphides." Solo dances were taken by Lucia Chase, Rosella Hightower and Marina Svetlova, who danced the exquisite Pas de Deux with Dolin.

The second ballet offered scope for histrionic ability that was not overlooked by the star performers, and its quality of humanness was accentuated by the quick and perky music of P. . . . Three contrasting characters took the leads, Nora Kaye as La Reine de la Danse from Moscow, who caused much merriment by her acid interpretation; Miriam Golden as La Deesse de la Danse from Milano, and a fascinating little coquette from Paris, La Fille de Terresoire, taken by Janet Reed. Vieing with each other in a "Gala Performance," the three dancers, show themselves in dual roles—as widely acclaimed artists reveling in public adulation, and underneath, as catty, backbiting females torn with jealousy among themselves. The choreography and supervision was by Anthony Tudor, another artist who was billed to appear, but didn't, and the scenery and costuming by De Molas. A particularly effective opening, showing the stars backstage with all the little ironies and intrigues of theatre life, and a humorous twist at the end made this, to one reporter at least, the most enjoyable of the evening.

Molded after the famous lithograph by Chalon, the "Pas de Quatre" was revised and brought back to the theatre by Anton Dolin. The delicacy of the petal-rose bouffant dresses, the charm and symmetry of the dance cast against a pastel lighted background was emphatically relayed to the audience by the four dancers, Janet Reed, Rosella Hightower, Marina Svetlova and Nora Kaye.

The "Cappriccio Espagnole," a ballet in one scene by Massine, based on Rimsky-Korsakov's music, was a riot of flaming color and vigor. The choreography by Massine and Argentinia embraced many typical Spanish dances, the alborada, seguidilla, fandango and other gypsy dances, performed by a large cast and starring Nora Kaye and Jerome Robbins.

Mois Zlatin and Antal Dorati

alternated in conducting the ballet's symphony orchestra, which seemed a little sketchy, no doubt due to the difficulty of maintaining full strength.

BILLED BUT ABSENT

It seems incredible that Hurok should allow billing of members of the cast who are known in advance to be unable to appear. Markova, for instance, has been ill in Hollywood for some time and will not be back to the stage for weeks; Conrad and Lyon, also advertised both here and in Vancouver, left the company six months ago; Schbine over a year ago. Three others whose names are also used as an attraction to the public are Tudor, Laing and Lazovsky, none of whom has quota numbers and therefore compelled to remain in the United States.

This does not necessarily imply that the performance was not up to mark—on the contrary. But it is unfair bait to the audience to use the names of top artists and dancers who are expected to live up to the reputation of a Massine or a Markova. These tactics are discouraging a great many ardent theatre-goers, and will be found to be materially, as well as ethically, unsound in the long run.

Giants Give $10,000 Bonus to Youngster

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP)—Dick Lajekie, 17-year-old Passaic High School athlete, said Monday night he agreed to accept a $10,000 bonus to sign a contract with the New York Giants' Baseball Club.

The youthful shortstop, who batted .490 with his high school nine this season, said he would meet Eddie Brannick, Giants' secretary, in New York to sign the contract. He will be paid $400 monthly as long as he remains with the club, he said.

Chalky Wright Wins

WASHINGTON (AP)—In his final ring appearance for the duration, Chalky Wright, former featherweight king, stopped Angel Avila of Mexico in the seventh heat of a scheduled 10-rounder Monday night. Wright weighed 130, Avila 126.

Wright, veteran Los Angeles negro battler who will join the maritime service, outclassed Avila throughout.

Avila's eyes were puffed, his mouth was cut and he was flaying the air helplessly when Referee Charley Reynolds stopped the bout after 2 minutes and 17 seconds of the seventh.

On the Associated Press score card Wright was credited with six rounds and one was called even.

Startling Zombie Shown at Dominion

Thrills and horror go to make "I Walked with a Zombie" one of the year's most sensational screen offerings, is now being shown at the Dominion Theatre.

The RKO Radio film features James Ellison, Frances Dee and Tom Conway, with Miss Dee as a trained nurse who goes to a remote island in the West Indies to care for a mystery patient, a woman who walks and breathes but cannot speak or think.

How she discovers that her charge is a "zombie," one who has died and then been restored through witchcraft to a sleep-walker-like existence, leads to a gripping climax.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES

If there is one thing Joe E. Brown prizes more than anything else connected with his cinematic activities, it is the fan mail he receives.

Ever since making his screen debut, Brown has insisted that his pictures be entirely without offence. He has never permitted a hint of vulgarity to taint the action or dialogue of a film in which he stars.

Right now he's cavorting through Columbia's "The Daring Young Man," a zany comedy at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres that's right down Joe E. Brown's alley.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Paramount's "Five Graves to Cairo," the much-heralded behind-the-scenes thriller with Rome's loss of the African continent as its central idea, is currently at the Capitol Theatre. A brilliant cast, including Franchot Tone, Anne Baxter, Akim Tamiroff and Erich von Stroheim as Marshal Rommel, acted out the thrill-packed story, set down in the locale over which Rommel was chased back and forth for many months by the British 8th Army.

YORK THEATRE

"Orchestra Wives," which is at the York Theatre today, is a jam session of laughs, love and alluring young ladies highlighted by the music that all America loves to sing and swing to, the music of Glenn Miller and his band. Co-starred with Miller are George Montgomery and Ann Rutherford. Featured is a cast of beauties, including Lynn Bari, Carole Landis, Virginia Gilmore and Mary Beth Hughes, as well as Cesar Romero and the Nicholas Brothers.

"Girl Trouble," 20th Century-Fox's sparkling romantic comedy starring Don Ameche and Joan Bennett, is the first motion picture to use dimmed-out Manhattan as a background. The film is now at the Rio Theatre.

A camera crew visited New York to get the necessary footage, because Director Harold Schuster wanted the novel effect to be realistic.

ATLAS THEATRE

Jack Benny and Ann Sheridan were discussing various kinds of wind storms—gales, hurricanes, etc. The discussion was prompted by a rain sequence which studio technicians were preparing for Warner Bros. "George Washington Slept Here," now at the Atlas Theatre.

"Well," concluded Benny, "I know a young man who has his 21st birthday next month, so he says he'll be a moonson."

Miss Sheridan's screams could be heard clear across the lot.

CADET THEATRE

Blitz and Spike, two of Hollywood's most competent canine performers, have important roles in Universal's mystery-melodrama, "Nightmare," showing currently at the Cadet Theatre. Diana Barrymore and Brian Donlevy are co-stars in the picture, but the two dogs, brindle-colored Dane, practically steal the screen in many sequences.

Long Lost Plane Found Wrecked On B.C. Mountain

VANCOUVER (CP)—Scattered on both sides of a mountain peak 7,000 feet high on the Fraser River 74 miles southeast of Vancouver lies the remains of a big airliner missing for eight months with its 13 occupants. A ground party today was making its way slowly through the mountainous terrain toward the scene, but it is believed that three or four days will pass before they can return. The long-sought plane, en route from Prince George to Vancouver, was sighted by Don Patry, Canadian Pacific Airline pilot, who has been carrying on a steady search for it, shortly after noon on Monday.

Subsequent aerial survey of the wreckage revealed that it struck the jagged mountain peak while in full flight, scarcely 50 feet below its summit and only two miles off a radio beam it apparently was seeking at the time.

After viewing the widely scattered wreckage, company officials feel certain that the 10 passengers and three crew members must have been killed instantly when the machine struck the mountain.

The ground party, under direction of Sgt. W. J. Thomson of Provincial Police, hopes to reach the crash scene by Wednesday. It is hoped that the ship's log and notes made by Pilot Ernie Kubeck during the final tragic flight may give some clue as to what happened before the airliner struck the mountain in a snowstorm.

The wreckage was located in the approximate area where residents reported hearing its motors on the night it disappeared. Some, including Bridge Bayley of Chilliwack, living near the scene, reported hearing a crash at the approximate time the plane disappeared. There was an intensive search soon after its disappearance, but snow, then falling heavily, apparently quickly covered it.

Shipworker Injured

Condition of A. W. Ferriday, 1770 Fort Street, injured Monday night when the crane he was dismantling at Yarrow No. 1 yard collapsed, was reported as fair today by Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities.

Ferriday, a burner, suffered chest injuries when the gantry crane he was dismantling with Stuart Kennedy, 3877 Saanich Road, and Joe Reese, Menzies Street, collapsed. Ferriday was crushed against the wall of a building.

Taken to hospital by C. & C. ambulance, Ferriday was attended by Dr. E. L. McNiven. The two other men suffered minor injuries.

Hoarder Convicted

TORONTO (CP)—James W. Gray Monday was convicted of hoarding food and gasoline beyond an amount reasonable for household and will be sentenced Thursday. Police who investigated said Gray had stored 30½ pounds of coffee, 24 tins of soup, 21 jars of corn syrup, 16 tins of beans, nine pounds of tea, 20 jars of peach jam, 200 pounds of sugar and 25 gallons of gasoline.

Lake Ship Aground

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The coal carrier, Coalhaven of the Canada Steamship Lines, today was reported aground of York-shire shoal near here. The vessel is believed to be in no immediate danger. The towing tug, Salvage Prince, is on the way to the scene.

Convoy Lanes Now Like Milk Route

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT (CP)—There's not enough action at sea these days for CPO. Wilfred McWatters, R.C. N.V.R., of Regina, who claims the convoy lanes are as quiet as milk routes.

The Navy said today in a press release that McWatters, a 27-year-old coxswain aboard a Canadian corvette, has been going to sea for more than three years and has experienced several bouts with the enemy.

"There was a time when hardly a day would go by without some contact with enemy submarines while convoying ships," said McWatters, "but now it's a novelty to bump into a U-boat during a crossing."

"Our last trip was so quiet that it was a wee bit boring. Except for the fact that we had an attack from enemy aircraft for a half an hour or so, which caused little damage to our convoy, it was a dull journey. Even the sea was calm all the way."

Convoy crossings haven't always been so peaceful for McWatters, who can recollect several major conflicts with enemy U-boat craft. Early this spring he was aboard a corvette which saw sharp action.

WOLF PACK ATTACKS

"It was late in the afternoon when our telegraphist came to the bridge with a report that a submarine wolf pack had been sighted in the vicinity by aircraft," he said. "All day our convoy had been plodding along without any trouble. Then an oil tanker got it. In a minute the sea was an inferno of flames."

"A second and third ship were torpedoed minutes later, but only one of them sank," he continued. "All the escorts were scouring the seas for the attackers."

"Our signalman spotted a periscope on the starboard side and we altered course. We opened fire as the submarine submerged and gave them quite a concert with a couple patterns of depth charges. I think we got it, for a huge air bubble burst shortly after and patches of oil rose to the surface."

Several days later, miles from their first attack, the convoy again was subjected to Axis submarine warfare, and McWatters had a hand in a tussle with a U-boat which he is sure was badly damaged.

Capt. E. W. Gray Retires From Sea

Capt. E. W. Gray, master of Canadian National steamer Prince George, was honored at a presentation ceremony at Vancouver Monday to mark his retirement from the company's service Aug. 22.

He has a record of half a century at sea to his credit and has served Canadian National for over 20 years, serving on most of the company's vessels plying B.C. waters.

The presentation of a leather traveling case to the captain and a Moorecroft vase for his wife, was made by Supt. G. A. MacMillan on behalf of members of St. Prince Rupert and the C.N. dock staff.

Last week, Capt. Gray's shipmates on St. Prince George presented him with a club bag, together with a handbag for Mrs. Gray. A native of San Francisco, Capt. Gray, as an infant, moved with his parents to Victoria, still his home city. He went to sea at the age of 15 aboard the collier Costa Rica, operating between Nanaimo and the Golden Gate. After 13 years with the White Pass and Yukon Navigation Co. as first officer on the river steamers, Capt. Gray joined St. Quadra, carrying ore to the Tacoma smelter from Britannia Beach.
